Hydrogen-Fueled Rocket Puts 5-Ton Load In Orbit

Mighty Centaur Scores Initial Flight Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The supercharged Atlas-Centaur, first space rocket with engines powered by liquid hydrogen, scored its initial test-flight success Wednesday, hurling its five-ton upper stage into orbit about the earth.

The success, coming after months of trouble for the Atlas-Centaur, gave a boost to plans for manned and unmanned exploration of the moon.

The rocket is considered a vital link in the lunar program, because it is pioneering liquid hydrogen technology and because of its assignment to land unmanned craft on the moon in advance of astronaut expeditions.

IMP Shot Successful

The shot was the second from Cape Canaveral in less than 17 hours with a bearing on the moon program. Tuesday night, an Interplanetary Monitoring Platform — IMP — was hoisted into space to study solar radiation which threatens astronauts on lunar voyages.

The 109 - foot Atlas-Centaur blazed away from earth at 2:03 p.m. (EST) on the 367,000 pounds of thrust delivered by its Atlas booster stage. Approximately four minutes later, the Centaur second stage separated and its pair of hydrogen-driven engines fired for 380 seconds to inject into an eliptical oribt.

368 To 1,058 Miles High

The target route was a course ranging from 345 to 1,035 miles above the earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced an hour after launching that the rocket had followed its predicted course almost exactly and entered an orbit ranging from 368 to 1,058 miles high.

The orbiting Centaur stage, 28.5 feet and weighing 10,200 pounds, will be mostly dead weight and have no scientific value. A radio tracking beacon was to stop transmitting after about 10 hours flight. The purpose was to check orbital insertion characteristics of the Atlas-Centaur combination.

Allies Welcome Johnson Pledge

LONDON (UPI)—Britain and continental European allies Wednesday warmly welcomed President Lyndon B. Johnson's first address to a joint session of Congress as a reassuring pledge of unchanged American policies and commitments.

Diplomats said the President by moving quickly has helped break the virtual paralysis which gripped Europe and its chancellories since the assassination of John F. Kennedy last week.

A first diplomatic appraisal hailed Johnson for having at once reassured the Allies, bolstered the unity of the Atlantic alignment and reaffirmed the policy of seeking to ease tensions in the uncertain East-West relationship.

Soviets Talk Summit

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet press gave prominence Wednesday to a call for a summit meeting between President Johnson and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev. Speculation here centered on neutral Stockholm as a possible site for such a meeting in June.

Abducted

Col. James K. Chenault (above), assistant chief of the U. S. Army mission in Venezuela, was kidnaped at gunpoint yesterday by four armed men in Caracas. He was on his way from home to his office in his official car. The embassy later got a phone call by a Spanish-speaking man saying: "Don't worry about Col. Chenault; the kidnaping was for propaganda purposes only." (AP Photofax)

Venezuela Gunmen Kidnap U.S. Official

Terrorists Seize Col. James Chenault

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI)—Four heavily armed pro-Castro terrorists Wednesday kidnaped U.S. Army Col. James K. Chenault, 45, of Sherman, Tex., in front of his city home at gunpoint.

The terrorists, presumably members of the underground Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN), overpowered a Venezuelan soldier driving Chenault's car to carry out their bold assault.

Chenault, deputy chief of the U.S. military mission in Venezuela, was in uniform but not armed. His captors, brandishing submachine guns, shoved him into a car and sped away.

The kidnaping took place at 6:30 a.m. Two hours later, an anonymous telephone caller told an operator at the U.S. Embassy switchboard that Chenault would not be harmed.

"We only want him for propaganda purposes," the caller said.

Notified of the kidnaping, President Romulo Betancourt ordered police and troops out to search the city. Road blocks were erected and cars halted and searched.

U.S. Ambassador Allan C. Stewart received personal assurances from Betancourt that "everything possible will be done to secure Chenault's freedom," it was learned.

Within hours, police were said to have an undisclosed number of suspects in custody.

The Chenault home is at the eastern end of Caracas, near the Central University where much of the anti-government terrorism has originated.

Chenault's wife, the former Ruth M. Richmond of Bethesda, Md., and their three children, Bess Ann, 20, James K. Jr., 16, and Nina Louisa, 11, were at home but apparently did not see the kidnaping.

Accused Plot Figure Doomed By Cambodia

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Cambodia announced Wednesday a military court has condemned to death a Cambodian accused of trying to overthrow Prince Norodom Sihanouk's government with official backing from the United States.

Radio Phnom Penh broadcast this sequel to Sihanouk's severance Nov. 17 of all aid relations with the United States, from which his neutralist regime had received about $30 million a year, and his swing toward closer ties with Red China.

The prisoner was Preap Inn, 35, identified as a member of an anti-Sihanouk, anti-Communit guerrilla organization called Khmer Serei — Free Cambodians.

The United States has acknowledged that it knows such an organization exists, but denied American involvement in any plot against Sihanouk.

Southerners Cool To Civil Rights Plea

Address Receives Unanimous Praise For Its Eloquence

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Johnson's speech to Congress was hailed unanimously for its eloquence Wednesday but failed to diminish Southern hostility to the civil rights program he advocated.

Democrats and Republicans alike praised Johnson for his call for national unity and purpose in the aftermath of the assassination of John F. Kennedy. They paid tribute to the sense of leadership their long-time colleague demonstrated in his first major address as President.

But key Southerners were quick to question Johnson's proposal that enactment of a strong civil rights bill as soon as possible would be a legislative memorial to the dead President.

Russell Assails Bill

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Southern bloc, credited Johnson's speech with inspiring "a feeling of unity" but questioned "whether it results in the expeditious action he asked or not."

Spelling out his continued opposition to the civil rights bill, Russell commented: "I am as strongly in favor of real civil rights as the President, but this package is not a civil rights bill. . .it is a special privilege bill. . .it will destroy more rights than it will establish."

Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the House Rules Committee withheld immediate comment but was expected to coninue his opposition to clearing the legislation to the House floor. The measure, sought by Kennedy, has been approved by the judiciary committee but it is held up now in Smith's committee.

"Political," Ellender Says

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., another Southern foe of the bill, said: "I don't think it will do him a bit of good no matter how he shouts about it. It's strictly political."

Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., commented: "Although he advocated, it is up to the Congress to say."

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., Negro chairman of the House Labor Committee, called the speech "superb."

Republican leaders were generous in their praise of the speech and — in keeping with the political moratorium they have declared until at least the end of this year — neutral on the goals Johnson recommended.

Md. School Board Seeks $128 Million

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Board of Education approved Wednesday a budget request totaling almost $128 million for the 1965 fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The request is more than $9 million above current appropriations, and does not include proposals for additional state aid being considered by the Legislative Council.

Gov. Connally Says JFK Gasped "Oh!" As Bullets Hit Him

Wounded Texan Discloses Jackie Cried "They've Killed My Husband"

DALLAS (UPI) — Gov. John B. Connally, wounded in the assassination said Wednesday that Jacqueline Kennedy cried "Oh my God !They've killed my husband!" As the bullets thudded into him.

The President gasped, "Oh!"

"We had just turned the corner (onto Elm Street) and I heard the shot," Connally said during a closed-circuit television news conference from his bed in Parkland Memorial Hospital.

"I think the man did what he intended to—shoot both of us," Connally said, wiping his eyes as he spoke.

"When the first shot hit the President," he said: "I turned to the left.

"The President had slumped. He said, 'Oh.' Then I was hit. I knew I was hit bad.

"Mrs. Kennedy said 'Oh my God! They've killed my husband! Jack! Jack!"

Connally said his wife, who was sitting next to him on a jump seat facing the Kennedys, said: "My God! They're going to kill us all."

Connally said that after he was shot, the President was hit with the third and last shot fired by the sniper, hidden in the Texas School-book Depository Building 100 yards away.

It could have happened anywhere, the 46-year-old governor said. "It was a manifestation of extremism.

"I feel President Kennedy has been asked to do something in death that has not been done in life:

"To so shock and stun the nation and the world that it will realize what is happening—that cancerous growth affecting all of us . . . breeds hatred and intolerance."

Asked when he knew the President was dead, he replied: "Saturday, after I was conscious enough to understand.

"Nellie told me. It was no news. I was almost sure he was killed after the two shots I knew he had taken.

"I felt I had been killed, too, after I was shot."

Saved by four hours of surgery, Connally had been shot through the back. The bullet fragmented. It broke three ribs cut a lung, shattered his right wrist and made a slight wound above the left knee.

"My God! What a horrible, horrible tragedy!" he said.

"We were so happy, so happy. We had had tremendous ovations. And in a second, this thing happened that changed all our lives."

"This is how a moment of joy can turn to sorrow," he said. "It was a beautiful day. Two young men, almost the same age, with the most beautiful women in the world as wives. In seconds, it turned to tragedy."

Capitol Security For LBJ Tightest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Capitol, which is used to seeing strong protection measures taken when a President visits, witnessed the tightest security cordon within memory Wednesday for the first address of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Officials would not say how many men were stationed in and around the Capitol, but it was obvious to anyone who has seen previous protection efforts that the Secret Service and the Capitol and metropolitan police were going all-out.

Every entrance was guarded by both uniformed police and plainclothesmen. Wooden barriers were set up at strategic points with more police and agents guarding them. In addition, interior doorways, stairways and many of the nooks and crannies of the Capitol were manned by guards.

No Surprises Seen In Report On JFK Slaying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI report to President Johnson on the assassination of John F. Kennedy promises no great surprises.

In all likelihood, according to the best information available, it will point to Lee Harvey Oswald as the slayer.

Then the American public will have assurances from an agency with all the impressive credentials of the FBI that Oswald, acting alone and not as part of a conspiracy, fired the fatal bullets last Friday from the window of a Dallas, Tex., building.

The report is not yet complete. FBI investigators and the Justice Department are working under great pressure to lay the full, tragic story on Johnson's desk.

"We've got to build an airtight case even greater than if we were going to court," one official said.

Vietnamese Planes Break Up Red Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—South Vietnamese government planes struck with rockets, bombs and bullets Wednesday to break up a strong Communist raid in which three Americans were wounded.

Three Vietnamese were killed and six wounded in the guerrilla attack on an American-Vietnamese Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, a U.S. military spokesman said. It was the second raid on a Special Forces camp in four days.

Casualties suffered by the Viet Cong guerrillas were not available, but reports from the camp said the air strike was carried out with high accuracy.

The spokesman said injuries to the three Americans were slight.

Race Equality Appeal Made By President

Emotion-Choked Johnson Endorses Kennedy Program

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Choked with emotion, President Johnson asked Congress for help with taxes, civil rights and the unceasing search for peace as fitting memorials to fallen John F. Kennedy.

The new chief executive packed into 24 minutes Wednesday a down-the-line endorsement of the program of the man who died Friday at the hand of an assassin.

"This," Johnson said, "is no time for delay. It is a time for action."

Thirty times the President was interrupted for applause.

Recalling his own service in House and Senate and as a vice president, Johnson said that for 32 years, "Capitol Hill has been my home."

Looking out over an audience that crammed the House chamber, an audience that encompassed the leadership of government of all branches and the men who represent other lands in this national capital, Johnson paused for a long, long moment. He swallowed and seemed to be trying to steel himself.

Trace Of A Tear

Then, with perhaps a trace of a tear in his eyes, he picked up the thread of his speech:

"An assassin's bullet has thrust upon me the awesome burden of the presidency. I am here today to say that I need your help, I (he paused again) cannot bear this burden alone. I need the help (another pause) of all Americans and all America.

"This nation has experienced a profound shock and in this critical moment it is our duty—yours and mine—as the government of the United States—to do away with uncertainty and to show that we are capable of decisive actions; that from the brutal loss of our leader we will derive not weakness but strength—that we can and will act and act now."

The appeals for help and decisive action were interrupted by applause.

And then when the President put into a single long sentence much of his thinking and determination in the field of foreign policy, he was interrupted seven times.

Rededicates Nation

He said:

"From this chamber of representative government let all the world know, and none misunderstand, that I rededicate this government to the unswerving support of the United Nations, to the honorable and determined execution of our commitments to our allies, to the maintenance of military strength second to none, to the defense of the strength and the stability of the dollar, to the expansion of our foreign trade, to the reinforcement of our programs of mutual assistance and cooperation in Asia and Africa, and to our Alliance for Progress in this hemisphere."

At another point he pledged that the nation will keep its commitments, from South Viet Nam to West Berlin.

"We will be unceasing in the search for peace; resourceful in our pursuit of areas of agreement even with those with whom we differ; and generous and loyal to those who join with us in common cause," the President said.

Reading slowly, enunciating clearly, Johnson followed almost

Additional Md. Tax Endorsed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Additional taxes totalling $35.5 million for public schools and roads were approved Wednesday by Maryland legislative groups.

Supplemental registration fees for motor vehicles which could amount to several more million dollars were recommended also if a county wants to impose them.

A committee which adopted a new formula of state aid for schools left it up to Gov. Tawes to decide how to raise the required $17.2 million.

It suggested he either lower the individual income tax exemption from $800 to $600 or increase the present 3 per cent tax.

At least six committee members, including the chairman, Sen. Harry R. Hughes, D-Caroline, voiced reservations over the new program itself because it was nearly $3 million higher than one which narrowly failed in the 1963 legislature.

The committee will send its report directly to Gov. Tawes who had asked it to study increased school aid after its defeat earlier this year. That bill would have lowered the income tax exemption, which would fall short of bringing in the extra $17 million.

The full legislative council voted to recommend at the February session of the General Assembly an increase in the state tax on gasoline from 6 to 7 cents a gallon and the titling tax on vehicles from 2 to 3 per cent. The state would keep all the additional revenue instead of dividing it with the counties and Baltimore City.

The city and 23 counties, however, would be authorized to charge an extra registration fee. It would be $5 on passenger cars and $10 and $15 on trucks.

The increased gasoline taxes would bring in $11.2 million more and the titling tax $7.2 million during the first year.

The extra money along with existing revenues would be used to finance road building costing $344,777,000 for five years starting in 1965. In addition to current revenue, the State Roads Commission would be authorized to borrow $300 million.

The new school formula shifts the basic state aid from minimum teacher salaries to the number of pupils. The minimum state salary scale has been $3,600 to $5,700 but by local supplementation in every county it actually is considerably higher. The new formula would raise the state scale to $4,800 to $5,700.

Kennedys Gather For Sad Reunion

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — The kitchen at the home of Joseph P. Kennedy bustled with Thanksgiving preparations Wednesday as the family drew together once again for the annual reunion.

The Kennedys went bravely ahead just as they would have if the President were alive.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her children, Caroline, 6-years-old Wednesday, and 3-year-old John, were scheduled to arrive Thursday in time for the traditional dinner.

A breeze off Nantucket Sound held the half-staffed flag on the late President's home as stiff as if it were starched. Mrs. Kennedy and the children will stay there.

Saddened U.S. To Give Thanks

By The Associated Press

America observes Thanksgiving Day but her heart won't be in it.

The tragic death of President John F. Kennedy was too recent and too deeply etched for a normal observance of the traditionally happy time of bountiful feasts and family reunions.

The Rev. John W. Regan, a curate at St. Francis Xavier church at Hyannis, Port., Mass., where Kennedy had a home, said only last Sunday:

"Here in America, this Thanksgiving will be different. This year, as the Pilgrims did, we will turn again to God. We have a great deal to be thankful for. The men who fought and died for us in the hot wars and in the cold war. We should be grateful for the great men God has given us."

The usual religious services associated with the holiday—now 174 years old—took on special significance in a nation shocked by the assassination of a president. Almost every church and synagogue scheduled special services.

President Johnson scheduled a nationwide television address at 6:15 p.m. EST Thursday. He planned to spend the holiday at his Washington home with his family.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said the 15-minute talk "will be a Thanksgiving Day message to the people."

In his address to a joint session of Congress Wednesday, Johnson said "on this Thanksgiving eve, as we gather together to ask the Lord's blessing let us unite in those familiar and cherished words: 'America, America, God shed His grace on thee and crown they good with brotherhood from sea to shining sea.'"

President Johnson urged that Kennedy's Thanksgiving proclamation be read in the nation's churches as a memorial.

One of the last paragraphs of the proclamation, issued Nov. 4, says in the eloquence for which Kennedy was famous:

"On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice and understanding among all men and all nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist."

Subdued LBJ Returns To Old Capitol Hill Home

Chief Executive Lays It On Line

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—A subdued Lyndon B. Johnson came back Wednesday to his old home on Capitol Hill to plead with his friends to quit acting like congressmen and get on with their work.

"I need your help," said President Johnson. "I ask your help."

At least twice his voice wavered, and at the end he wiped his glasses.

Again and again the applause rolled in, as he said it's time to stop talking about civil rights and start passing some laws; as he bitterly denounced bigotry and the violence it produces; as he said the best memorial to John F. Kennedy would be to enact the programs he fought for.

But no one knows better than Johnson that what a president asks of Congress and what he gets can be two different things.

And no one knows better than Johnson that applause doesn't necessarily reflect what the boys in the back committee room will have.

But even Johnson's enemies would have to concede that he made a gallant and eloquent try.

He knew that a president, cast into the chief executive's office as the result of an assassin's work, has the sympathy of everyone.

And so he laid it on the line, as one who has served as representative, senator and vice president in 32 years on the Hill, that it was time for a balky, squabbling Congress to get moving again.

He didn't put it quite that bluntly, of course.

"This is no time for delay," Johnson said. "It is time for action."

Perhaps the greatest change was in Johnson himself.

Normally he's the nation's No. 1 backslapper, hand shaker, cheer leader and stirrer-upper of enthusiasm.

There was none of that.

Maryland News In Brief

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Funeral services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Zion Reformed Church for Mrs. Hazel L. Rash, who died Wednesday at Memorial Hospital in New York after a three-week illness. She was 44.

Mrs. Rash was the wife of George O. Rash, city editor of the Hagerstown Daily Mail. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston M. Lowery of Maugansville, also survive.

BALTIMORE (AP) — State's Atty. William J. O'Donnell wants to know if those tiny tear gas guns women carry in their purses are legal.

He asked Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan Wednesday if the tear gas guns aren't dangerous weapons. If so, said O'Donnell, it would be illegal to carry them.

"I am concerned," said O'Donnell, "that such tear gas pen guns may become readily available and will provide lawless members of our community with still another weapon to use upon persons using our streets."

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Weather Bureau predicts fair and warm weather in Maryland for Thanksgiving day.

Temperatures in the mid-60s were forecast. There will be no rain until Friday or Saturday.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission released Wednesday the facts used in determining where several major expressways would be situated.

The information, compiled in an $800,000 study of metropolitan traffic requirements, was used in deciding where to put the proposed East-West, Jones Falls and Southwest expressways.

The report lists in detail an origin and destination study undertaken by Wilbur Smith & Associates, plus information on land use, population, employment, vehicle ownership and related information.

Notary Might Appeal Ruling He Vacate Job

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals may be asked to review a Circuit Court ruling that a public official who also is a notary public must vacate one of his positions.

LeRoy Moser, who was ordered Tuesday by Judge James MacGill to vacate his position on Howard County's Metropolitan Commission, had not decided Wednesday whether to appeal the decision.

Judge MacGill upheld an opinion by the attorney general's office that notaries public are positions of profit and that an individual holding two public positions of profit forfeits the one to which he was first appointed.

The Moser case was the first court test of the attorney general's opinion.

Judge MacGill said Moser, a Democrat, forfeited his membership on the commission when he renewed his notary seal last May.

He also said that the appointment of Republican Sherwood H. Balderson to Moser's post was valid. The all-Republican county commissioners made the appointment after learning of Moser's notary status.

Judge MacGill's decision may influence the House of Delegates next year when it reviews the cases of nine members who hold notary seals.

But the judge's decision won't be binding because a provision of the Maryland Constitution gives only the House of Delegates the power to rule on its members' qualifications.

Nitze Confirmed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate confirmed Wednesday the late President Kennedy's nomination of Paul H. Nitze as new Navy secretary.

Confirmation was by voice vote. He succeeds Fred Korth, who resigned.

LBJ Asks Congress Aid

At the start, there was a moment of emotional impact. A moment that gave recognition to the reason for his presence.

"All I have," Johnson said, "I would have given gladly not to be standing here today.

"The greatest leader of our time has been struck down by the foulest deed of our time. Today John Fitzgerald Kennedy lives on in the mind and memories of mankind. He lives on in the hearts of his countrymen."

Among the guests Mrs. Johnson had asked to share the gallery was Zephyr Wright, the family's Negro cook for 20 years. Her chili is renowned among Johnson's friends and guests.

The First Lady kept her eyes constantly on her husband, joining the applause occasionally with gloved hands. She said of his speaking assignment afterward that, "It was an anguished spot to be in. But it was great—I have faith."

The speech brought out one of the President's oratorical trademarks—he breaks it up with an "and" when he refers to a year. This year, although it doesn't appear that way in his text, in delivery would be "19 and 63."

Johnson will speak to the nation at 6:15 p.m. EST with a Thanksgiving message.

Now, Johnson said, in this moment of new resolve, it was time to say to his fellow Americans, "Let us continue" the program and tasks Kennedy had to leave unfinished.

He appealed for united action by the American people in the hope that "the tragedy and torment of these terrible days will bind us together in new fellowship."

"The time has come," Johnson said, "for Americans of all races and creeds and political beliefs to understand and respect one another. Let us put an end to the teaching and preaching of hate and evil and violence. Let us turn away from the fanatics of the far left and the far right, from the apostles of bitterness and bigotry, from those defiant of law, and those who pour venom into our nation's bloodstream."

But he said the most immediate tasks are there on Capitol Hill.

First, Johnson said, no memorial oration or eulogy could more eloquently honor Kennedy's memory than the earliest possible passage of the civil rights bill for which he fought.

The man who pushed through the Senate the first civil rights measure since Reconstruction days was firm in his commitment to additional civil rights legislation now.

"We have talked long enough in this country about equal rights," he said. "We have talked for 100 years or more. It is time now to write the next chapter—and to write it in the books of law."

And then, second, Johnson said, "No act of ours could more fittingly continue the work of President Kennedy than the early passage of the tax bill for which he fought all this long year."

It seemed significant that Johnson had made a change to call for early passage, rather than for "earliest passage" as he had originally written in his text.

Significantly, also, Johnson made no attempt to dectate a deadline for getting specific things done.

This recognized the political facts of life in Congress on the part of a man who made a reputation as a political realist and a master of politics on Capitol Hill.

Fundamentally, his address changed nothing. The outlook still was for no action this year either on civil rights or Kennedy's $11-billion tax cut.

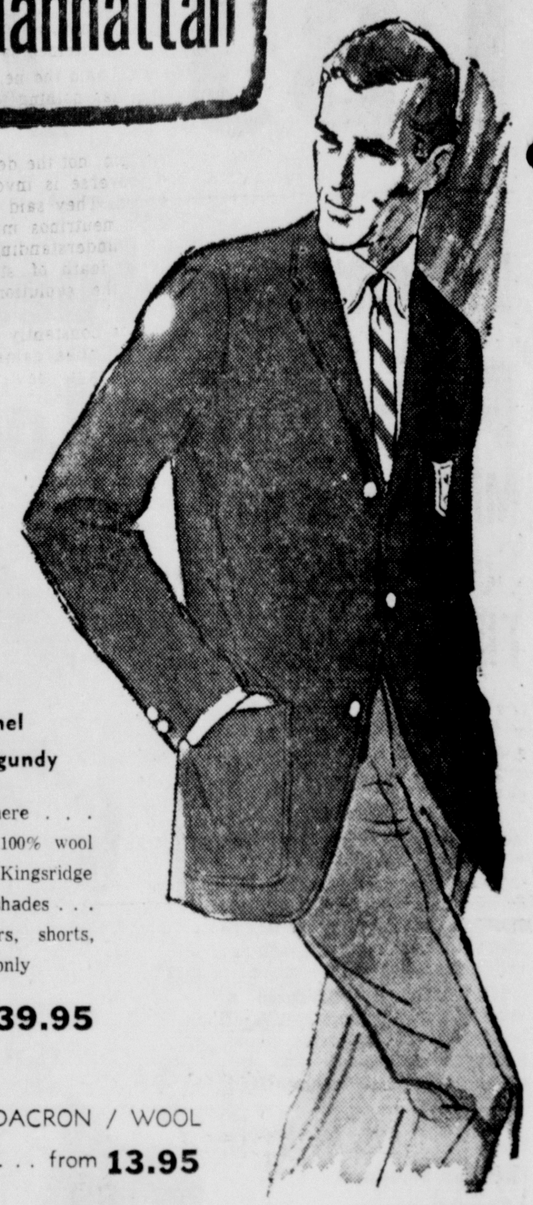

Johnson sounded an appeal for strong, forward-looking action on other legislative items in the Kennedy legacy: education bills, youth employment, foreign aid, and appropriations.

Johnson was ushered down the center aisle to a long, standing ovation.

He was completely unsmiling, seeming to emphasize with lines in his face the sorrow and difficulty he has been experiencing together in the five days he has been president.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials complained today that someone is trying to make a mountain out of a neutrino — a tiny part of the inside of an atom.

Despite categorical denials at the United Nations by U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and in Washington by the State Department, some Africans apparently are still convinced that the United States and South Africa are cooperating in nuclear test explosions.

In truth, according to a U.S. scientist who is trying to catch a neutrino deep in a South African gold mine, the research is as peaceful as chasing butterflies across the Sahara — and about as difficult.

The neutrino is an elusive particle that has neither mass nor charge.

The South African experiment is being conducted in what the Atomic Eenrgy Commission (AEC) says is the world's deepest underground laboratory.

The AEC disclosed last week a report received from neutrino hunter Fred Reines of the Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, Ohio.

In it, Reines said the South African research is expected to last two or three years, a year of which will be required for a giant defector to find 10 neutrinos, or at least evidence of neutrinos.

In cooperation with the AEC, the University of Witwatersrand in South Africa, Case Institute, and the South African goldmining industry, Reines is trying to detect the interaction with matter of the cosmic ray neutrino.

"It is hoped that the studies will give further information regarding the nature of the neutrino itself," Reines said.

The AEC said the neutrino experiment has nothing to do with atomic bombs or nuclear weapons.

The origin, not the destruction of the universe is involved, officials said. They said detection of cosmic neutrinos might lead to better understanding of the birth and death of stars, and therefore the evolution of the universe.

Neutrinos constantly bombard the earth. Unlike gamma, beta and other rays, neutrinos are not stopped by earth and rock and thus penetrate to great depths.

U. S. officials conceded today that talk about "atoms" and "underground experiment" and that involvement of the AEC could lead to misunderstanding. They said the problem was compounded by published reports that the experiment was costing "hundreds of millions of dollars." The actual is $500,000.

The weapons test accusations were made earlier this month before the U.N. Trusteeship Committee by Eduardo Mondlane, a petitioner from Mozambique, who indicated his information came from a newspaper report.

The assertion was made again Nov. 12 before the U. N. political committee by K.R. Baghdelleh of Tanganyika.

Ambassador Stevenson said the claim was not only "baseless and unsupported" but "false, unfounded and irresponsible."

Similar but not as elaborate research is going on in a cave in Maryland near Washington. Soviet scientists also are reported to be trying to catch a neutrino.

U. S. officials emphasized the experiments are conducted in a two-mile-deep mine shaft near Johannesburg, not because any explosions are involved — they are not — but because of the need to filter out non-essential elements.

What will scientists have to show for all of their effort?

"It (the impulse of a neutrino) is likely to be registered as a light on a screen that might be converted to a dot on a chart," was the way one non-scientist explained it.

Truthful

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Officers who arrested a 57-year-old local man on a drunk driving charge were seeking to learn just how much he had imbibed during the evening.

"When did you start drinking?" they queried.

Liner Comes Home

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Richard Stubblefield has his GI helmet liner back.

He turned it in at Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1951 after completing service with the 45th Division. Recently, it turned up in a shipment of helmet liners at the Army Surplus Store where he is employed.

The Holy Roman Empire existed from 962 to 1806.

Busy Birthday

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—Attired in her white uniform, with a pink carnation corsage on the shoulder, Mrs. O. S. Kelly celebrated her 80th birthday of nursing duty at Pleasant Valley Hospital here.

Brussels sprouts rank as one of the few vegetables to originate in northern Europe.

Visitors Get Juice

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Pure orange juice is again being served to tourists stopping at the welcome station on the Florida-Georgia line.

The Florida Development Commission, which operates the station, served an orange drink this summer because of the shortage and high cost of orange concentrate resulting from last December's freeze.

The Florida Citrus Commission has provided aid of $20,000 to insure use of pure orange juice at the station.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Untidy habits cost taxpayers an estimated $500 million a year.

That's the dollar size of the litter problem nationwide, as the Keep America Beautiful (KAB) crusaders figure it.

The litter happens a little at a time. Samples: Paper plates left on picnic tables; pop bottles tossed out of car windows on the nation's dream highways and nightmare by-ways.

The dollar loss—cost of picking up—is only the beginning of the litterbug's toll.

KAB estimates further that fires directly attributed to delinquent habits of smokers and campers cost more than $70 million in a 12-month period.

Litter, further, often provides food and shelter for disease-carrying insects and rodents. This threatens health.

But none of these losses, great as they are in terms of dollars and human life, reflect the fact that litter roughs up the natural beauty of the rural and urban scene.

It offends the esthetic senses of all Americans and makes a mockery of poems and songs praising the beauty of the land.

The KAB program director, Laura Freed, says the attack on litterbugs is three-pronged. It consists of:

—Public education to stimulate individual pride and responsibility for cleaner, safer, more attractive surroundings.

—Provisions for adequate trash disposal facilities.

—Enactment and enforcement of up-to-date state and local laws against littering to penalize willful litterbugs.

"Experience has shown," Miss Freed said, "that public education is the most important and most effective because it results in public cooperation."

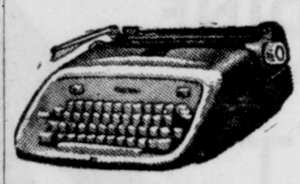

What can you do to help? Miss Freed answered the question this way:

"Train yourself and your family to place rubbish into a litter-can."

Official regulations of the Royal Canadian military forces prior to 1918 required that all men grow mustaches. The wearing of a beard, however, was prohibited.

It requires the complete yield of about 40 cashmere goats to produce enough material for one overcoat.

LBJ's Ranch 'Restricted'

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Visitors to the new summer White House can get through the stone gate reading "LBJ Ranch" but much of President Johnson's showplace ranch is off limits.

The Secret Service closed the ranch less than one-half hour after Johnson took the oath of office Friday. Entrances were blocked by police cars, which have since left to allow free passage onto the ranch.

But an Associated Press photographer who visited the ranch Tuesday found no one could enter the ranch without being questioned.

Tourists seemed content to take their snapshots from the road which offers a clear view of the white two-story house across the Pedernales River.

One of the subjects off limits to a news photographer is the small house where Johnson was born, to which Johnson proudly took President Kennedy during Kennedy's 1960 visit to the ranch.

By arrangement with Austin sources close to Johnson, an Associated Press photographer was met in Johnson City by an attorney for Johnson. The two journeyed the 15 miles to the ranch, where the attorney supervised the picture taking.

Under orders from Washington, no photos were allowed of the small dam on the Pedernales River between the house and the road; the kidney-shaped swimming pool; the landing strip and radio equipment; or the inside of the house.

The ranch is in rocky hill country 65 miles west of Austin.

Coal Industry Worried By Drive To Develop Cheap Electricity Through Atom

By MARGARET KILGORE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The coal industry sees a bugaboo in its future — nuclear power and the federal government's vast efforts to use it to provide American homes and industries with cheap electrical power.

The coal manufacturers' fears were heightened recently by the Atomic Energy Commission's report that it had successfully activated an experimental nuclear plant at Idaho Falls, Idaho. The plant is designed to generate electricity and at the same time produce more of its own fuel than it itself consumes.

Despite the bright promise of lower electricity bills, and Washington's confident predictions that there are fuel markets for all, the coal manufacturers are worried.

The fear that the federal government is pouring money into a project that may ruin their livelihood.

They point to the fact that the AEC has spent $1.3 billion so far to develop a civilian nuclear power industry that can produce electricity as cheaply—or cheaper — than that produced from coal and other fossil fuels.

The coal industry wants the federal government to know it is quite capable of holding its own in any fuels competition. At the same time, it resents big government competition with private enterprise.

Most experts agree that the atom is not going to produce electricity so plentiful and chap that it will not even have to be metered.

Instead, the hope now is to develop nuclear power to a point where it can be used to generate power in the usual manner in place of coal and other fossil fuels.

To achieve this objective, the AEC plans to build up to a dozen large, non-experimental and primarily duplicate commercial plants.

Privately owned utilities will actually build them, but AEC offers them incentives in the form of subsidies. These run as high as $60 million for a plant in the 400,000-500,000 kilowatt range.

Congress, the coal industry and private utilities are asking if such a large subsidy program is necessary.

They wonder if the nation will run out of electricity in the foreseeable future because of exhausted coal and other fuel reserves.

And, they ask, is the present price of electricity so high that the federal government must step in to protect the public interest?

The National Coal Policy Conference, which speaks for member coal companies, believes that until these questions are answered, present federal subsidies should end and civilian nuclear power should be left to stand or fall on its own competitive merits.

If nuclear power is needed and can be produced economically, then the needed plants will be built without government subsidy, the coal industry argues.

AEC Chairman Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg has reminded coal interests that Congress is considering legislation to require private ownership by 1973 of the special materials that nuclear power plants use for fuel.

Seaborg insisted the AEC really is "a great friend" to the coal industry. He estimated that AEC plants in 1962 consumed about 20 times as much electricity as all nuclear power plants in the United States produced.

And in 1961, nearly 20 million tons of coal may have been used in producing electricity to meet the commission's own requirements, compared to perhaps one million tons of coal that nuclear generation displaced.

"So far," Seaborg concluded "our operations have been all to your benefit, even if they have been largely for military purposes."

In reply to the late President Kennedy's request last year for a report on the potential of civilian nuclear power, the Atomic Energy Commission insisted that "a vigorous national nuclear power program can be pursued without interfering with a growing coal industry."

Seaborg sees nuclear power as a "maybe fuel" for the future with coal reserves adequate.

If nuclear power is developed, he added, it will play a role of "supplementing, not supplanting, the use of coal because, clearly, the need for coal will be increasing for a long time to come."

'My Fair Lady' Takes Special Slang To Italy

MILAN, Italy (UPI) — Eliza Doolittle has finally come to Italy. But neither George Bernard Shaw, if he were alive, nor anyone in London's East End would be likely to recognize her.

Eliza, star of the Shaw play "Pygmalion" that became the Lerner-Loewe musical "My Fair Lady," lost her cockney accent for the Italian production. There just isn't any way to put cockney into Italian.

The usual way out of such dilemma is to have the character speak in one of the local Italian dialects, which many Italians themselves have difficulty understanding.

But Suso D'Amico and Fedele D'Amico, who translated "My Fair Lady" into Italian, forsook that approach and invented a special slang for Eliza which is a far cry from the Italian as Dante knew it.

From the Theater of Art in Milan, the show will move to San Remo in January, to another city still to be selected and finally, some time next year, to Rome.

In its second season—if the film version now being made in America doesn't come out in the meantime—the play will go on tour throughout Italy. Otherwise there will be no second season but the first will be extended.

This is rather an ambitious program, in view of the fact that American musical comedies usually do not go over very well with Italian audiences. But Swedish impresario, Lars Schmidt, the husband of Ingrid Bergman and the man heading the Italian production, is confident Italians will love "My Fair Lady."

There is, of course, some justification for such optimism. "My Fair Lady," is the most of all time. Four million persons saw it in New York, where it played continuously for more than 2,500 performances. At Stockholm, 800,000 saw it, and it has been a sell-out in other cities.

Italian singer Delia Scale, who has the role of Eliza Doolittle, said she accepted the part only after long reflection.

Activities Discussed

The annual Christmas dance was planned and reports on the senior ring ceremony and jingle party were given at the meeting of the Ursuline Auxiliary, held recently. A report was given on the card party and Halloween party. Observing Education Week, students reported on school club activities.

The seniors will be in charge of decorations for the dance to be December 27, with music by the Crescendos from 9 until midnight.

Garden Club Exhibit To Be December 9-10

"Christmas Is Giving" is the title of the annual exhibit, which will be held December 9 and 10 at the First Federal Savings and Loan. It will be held during regular banking hours Monday evening and Tuesday.

There will be seven classes. Mrs. J. Donald Gibson is flower show chairman. The public is invited to attend, and enter classes. Those interested may call Mrs. Gibson, 729-1250 by December 1.

"God Gives His Son," is the topic for Class 1, which will be an interpretive class. It may be fresh or dried material and accessories are allowed.

"Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh," is Class 2. The arrangements are to be for a side table. Fresh and or dried material may be used and accessories are allowed.

"Christmas Traditions in Other Lands" is Class 3, which will be an interpretation holding the center of myths around the world. Fresh and or dried material may be used and accessories are allowed.

"Our American Legacy" is Class 4. This is a Christmas dinner table arrangement, with fresh material only, and accessories permitted. These are to be displayed on individual card tables.

"The Inviting Threshold" is the title for Class 5. This class may include wreaths, swags, sprays or any suitable Christmas decoration on a door. Material used is left to the discretion of the exhibitor.

"A Token of Friendship" is Class 6. It is to be a small decoration or favor, not to exceed three inches in overall dimensions. There will be displayed in round cutouts in a shadow box.

"Thank You, Santa" is Class 7. It may be of fresh or dried material, using a toy as a container or accessory. Other accessories are permitted.

A games party will be held tonight at 7:30 at the Virginia Avenue IOOF hall, by Our Flag of Cumberland Council 100, DofA.

Xi Nu Exemplar Marks Anniversary.

Members of Xi Nu Exemplar Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, formulated plans for a goodwill basket and celebrated the chapter's birthday at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Donna Lambert, Wiley Ford.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Florence Snelson. The chapter decided to have a good will basket, and each is to bring canned goods to the December 10 meeting. Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis was named chairman of arrangements for the basket for a needy family.

Mrs. Sarah Rank, program chairman, announced the December 10 meeting will be at the Welsh greenhouse, LaVale. Each member may bring a guest. Mr. Welsh will present a program on decorating the home for Christmas.

Mrs. Snelson invited the chapter members and their husbands to her home in Midland for a Christmas party. It will be December 14 and jingles will be exchanged.

At the conclusion of the business session, a party marking the chapter's birthday was held. Gifts were exchanged. The cake was marked, "Fifth Anniversary Xi Nu". It was decorated in gold and white, repeating the gold and white turkey that centered the table, carrying out the Thanksgiving motif. Mrs. Lambert served as hostess. She was assisted by the social chairman Mrs. Dorothea Hare and Mrs. Gladys Bolyard. Others attending were Mrs. Ruth Wood, Mrs. Mary Frances Martirano, Mrs. Betty Reed, Mrs. LaVonne Young and Mrs. Lois Nickel.

Social Chart

Cumberland Chapter 914, Women of the Moose, has postponed the regular meeting from tonight until tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock, because of the holiday.

Twiggtown Homemakers Club will meet Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Walter Bender, Williams Road. Jingles will be exchanged.

Society Has Silent Prayer

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Centenary Methodist Church held a moment of silent prayer for the late President Kennedy, followed by prayer by Mrs. Kyle Sawyers at the meeting Friday evening at the church.

Mrs. Fred Purnell presided and reported on the World Community Day in which the society participated and provided one dozen tee shirts. Mrs. Robert Heavner read an article, entitled "Christ's Yokes," and Mrs. Helen White read one on the Navajo Indians, "The Realm of the Navajos." The group sang, "Tell it to Jesus." Rev. Sawyers began the review of the book, "Our Missions Today," by Track K. Jones. It will continue for the next six months. Routine reports were given by Mrs. John Hardinger and Mrs. Lester Rice. The sunshine report was given by Miss Mary Ella Growden. It was announced that 44 visits were made to the sick.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held in conjunction with the December 27 meeting. It will be at the home of Mrs. Lester Rice. Jingles will be exchanged and there will not be any hostesses. A white elephant sale is planned for the January meeting. Sixteen members attended.

There are three key points in selection of an educational toy. Will it increase physical skills or stimulate new ideas? Will it give imagery and insight to help him to explore the arts and sciences and to develop abilities and appreciations? Will it help a child to understand the world around him?

RECEIVES FLAG—On behalf of Henry Hart Auxiliary 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mrs. Violet Karnes, patriotic instructor of the auxiliary, presented an American Flag to the Boy Scout Troop at John Humbird School, marking an Americanism program. It was accepted for the troop by Lonnie Eugene Meyers, cub scout. Others in the picture are Mrs. Clara Mantheiy, auxiliary president; Clarence Thompson, cubmaster, and Randy Wayne Whittington, cub scout.

Auxiliary 1411 Makes Tippit Fund Donation

A donation of $5 for the J. D. Tippit police fund was sent to Dallas, Texas, by Henry Hart Auxiliary 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the meeting Tuesday evening at the post home. A minute of silent prayer was held for the late President John F. Kenedy.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Clara Mantheiy. It was decided to have only one meeting in December. It will be on the 10th, at which time a Christmas party will be held, and jingles will be exchanged. Mrs. Goldie Martin was named chairman. Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held for underprivileged children. It will be December 23 at the VFW home. Mrs. Elizabeth Nave will be in charge.

Following the presentation of colors, the group sang the National Anthem and Mrs. Nave offered prayer. Mrs. Arthur Baker was reported seriously ill in Room 9, Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Mrs. Mary T. Moore, national home fund chairman, read a letter from the home at Eaton Rapids, Mich., listing articles needed in the Maryland cottage. A large box of wearing apparel will be mailed as a Christmas gift next week. The prize of the evening was won by Mrs. Mantheiy.

As an Americanization project, Mrs. Violet Karnes presented an American Flag to Boy Scout Pack 23 of John Humbird School. A short program was presented by the boys and the pledge to the Flag was given. Mrs. Eleanor Thompson, Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, den mothers; Clarence Thompson, cub master; Lonnie Meyers and Randy Whittington attended.

Thirty-five year pins were presented to three members. Mrs. Audrey Golliday received hers from Mrs. Grace Cross; Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, by her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Zimmerman and Mrs. Grace Bosenberg by Mrs. Rosalie Everstine. Highlights of their years in the auxiliary were given by each. Mrs. Bosenberg served as auxiliary president 1933-34; and District 3 president and secretary for eight years. Mrs. Golladay was president 1936-37 and also was treasurer of the auxiliary. During World War II, she was Red Cross sewing instructor three days and evenings each week at the post home, when lap robes, bedroom slippers, knitted socks, sweaters and scarfs were made. Mrs. Reynolds, who joined the auxiliary December 6, 1927, held office as conductress for eight years; sold the first buddy poppy on the street in 1928; was auxiliary presidentdent 1936-37; president of the Past Presidents Club, 1948, and installed her daughter as president in 1949. Mrs. Zimmerman was the first daughter to join the auxiliary. In 1957 Mrs. Reynolds was installed as president of the Department of Maryland VFW Auxiliary and 1962-63, District 3 president. Now she is musician

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

What To Do When Your Lack Of Sleep Is Showing

When your lack of sleep is showing, you want a cover-up until you're able to recover. This is especially important after bouts of insomia, for the strain of tension, worry and disappointment are more quickly revealed in your posture and expression than the ordinary fatigue that follows late-partying.

You'll find that looking pretty and gay, even if you feel exactly the opposite, gives an automatic lift to your morale throughout the day. And it's much easier to relax and revive if your appearance doesn't provoke others to comment and ask embarrasing questions about "what's ailing you."

As soon as you rise, open the window wide and take a few deep breaths of fresh air. Draw an extra-hot bath for yourself and, while the tub is filling, drink a tall glass with chilled fruit juice, preferably of the citrus variety.

Soak in your tub a few minutes longer than usual, finishing it off with a tepid-to-cool rinse for a bracer. After your bath, lave yourself luxuriously in body lotion.

If your eyes ache and smart, sooth them with a commercial eye wash . . . or cover them with cotton pads soaked in witch hazel for a few moments.

Be extra careful when you make up your face, so that you camouflage circles and shadows with foundation. Counteract sallowness or an ashen hue with pinker tones in base and powder. And by all means, add a touch of rouge to your cheeks . . . and your cheeriest red lipstick is a must!

Brush your hair till your scalp tingles and take the time to arrange it becomingly. Then, envelop yourself in a cloud of your very best cologne, the one you "save" for special occasions. Today — the day you need a shade more pampering — is very special, indeed!

When it's time to put on your dress, pass up those quiet, understated frocks — and pick something to wear that will pick up your spirits, the more colorful the better to brighten your aspect. Or if you select a basic, bedeck it with some costume jewelry or a saucy scarf.

Now, before you set out upon your day's activities, promise yourself a treat that you can look forward to . . . perhaps a nosegay of flowers for your desk, perhaps lunch or dinner at a restaurant you reserve, like your cologne, for special occasions.

If you're a homemaker, try to wangle an appointment at a beauty salon . . . and top it off with a round of hat-shopping. Or, best treat of all, bury the phone under a pillow and take time out for just what you need most — a NAP!

Short Gap Couple Is Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bosley of Short Gap were honored with a dinner on their 33d wedding anniversary. It was given by their children, at their home.

The former Miss Bernice Ward, daughter of the late Henry Ward and Mrs. Nara Ward, RD 1, Ridgeley, became the bride of Mr. Bosley November 23, 1930. The ceremony was performed at Pinto.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosley are the parents of seven children, Dale Bosley, Joan Bosley, Janet Bosley, Donald Bosley, Linda Alkire, all of Short Gap; James Bosley, of Germany, and Marjorie Didawick, Springfield, W. Va. They have four grandchildren.

Certificates Distributed

Reading project certificates were distributed at the meeting of the Carpenter's Addition Homemakers Club at the home of Mrs. George Phillips. They were presented by Mrs. Chester Wolford. Leading a discussion on reading, Mrs. J. J. Mars stressed books for children from 2 to the primary grades.

During the business session the Burlington home was discussed and a report on the Achievement day-program was given. Demonstrations on Christmas decorations were given by Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. Chester Wolford, Mrs. Robert Spriggs, Mrs. Raymond Swadley, and Mrs. Phillips.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Baker. Mrs. Wolford won the prize. A social followed.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

You Lead Two Lives

As a career girl you lead two lives. One is your business or professional life, the other your personal life. And the more successful you are in both, the more you separate the two.

Keeping the personal out of business is a serious concern of executives. These points are carefully considered by business organizations in evaluating women employees: the discussing of personal affairs in the office and bringing in outside troubles; too personal attitudes toward co-workers; gossiping; personal telephone calls on company time; the wearing of clothes that are unsuitable for business.

There's no question about what a hindrance faults of this kind can be to an upward climb—the girl who's guilty of them cannot seem to be as interested in her work or as capable of doing enough of it as she should be to deserve promotion, and sometimes even to be kept on the job. But there's also no question of the respect there is for a strict code of attention to business and reserve about personal matters. Men respect it particularly and recognize it readily as an attribute of the girl who's slated to go far.

Your second life is the richer for being set apart from the first. There's more enjoyment of your friends and family if you leave the office behind when you close its door, and others enjoy you more. Spend those hours you call your own as differently from your paid occupation as you can. Be a changeling as you slip from one life to the other. Develop interests and talents that will make your world wider and round out the kind of personality which will, in both lives, increase your rating in charm.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER—An investment in charm for every girl starting a career—every woman now in business, eager to reach top-flight success. It tells how to make that "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. Reliable short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope, for YOUR STEPTS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

K Of C Dance Tonight

The Around Towners will furnish music for the Thanksgiving dance which will be held this evening by Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

The dance will be held from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. and the proceeds will be turned over to Raymond "Ike" Law, sick chairman of the council, who annually distributes Christmas gifts to patients in the County Infirmary and County Home.

Tree experts say that a fairly fresh Christmas tree consumes from a pint to a quart of water each depending on its size, species and the heat and humidity of the house.

Brazil's Election Campaign Starts Early

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil's presidential election is still 23 months away, but jovial Juscelino Kubitschek and his rival, fiery anti-Communist Carlos Lacerda are already campaigning hard.

Kubitschek, president from 1956 to 1961, is the leading candidate, but opinion polls have recently shown Lacerda gaining ground, especially in rural areas.

Both candidates are pro-West and anti-Communist, in contrast to President Joao Goulart who seeks to chart an "independentist" or neutralist foreign policy trajectory for Brazil.

Goulart has been criticized for tolerating Communists in government jobs and for coolness toward Washington. Goulart, not eligible for re-election (presidents can hold two terms, but not consecutively), has not declared whom he will back.

Lacerda has pitched his campaign so far to promises to curb Brazil's galloping inflation (which government economists insist is not "run-away inflation") and graft — two sins which he can convincingly charge against the administrations of both Goulart and Kubitschek.

PACHYDERM WITH PROBLEM—This 475-pound elephant at Al Oeming's game farm near Edmonston, Ala., was suffering from cold feet before her keepers started using tanned leather and felt-lined boots to keep them warm. Fur's Inside Raincoats

By United Press International

The fur's inside new daytime and evening raincoats created jointly by Lawrence of London and Ben Khan. The sporting colletion includes Cambodian tiger, South American vicuna, timberwolf and Irish otter linings. Novelties: A snow leopard sweater, a white broadtail middy and a caviar mink waistcoat.

Jewelry slips to new lows to keep step with neckline plunges pace-setting designers are dictating for spring. Dorothy Adam designer for Richelieu, has created a collection of plunging pearls to accentuate the positive. One piece in the plunging pearl collection is a pear-shaped baroque pearl that dangles from a tiny gold chain. Another has the one large pearl suspended from a strand of smaller baroque pearls. The big pearl always focuses attention on the most strategic position at the base of the plunge.

Never let it be said that women have a priority on getting fashion ideas from the movies. A fictional hero of 18th century England—"Tom Jones" — has brought the gentleman's ascot into fashion focus this season via cinemaland. Witness the ratcatcher by Countess Mara. This version of the ascot is similar to a neck wrapping worn originally by the London Cockneys, as well as the traditional neckwear of those who ride to the houds.

Tailor Gives His Views On Men's Clothing Styles

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dunhill Tailored Clothes, Inc., is an emporium of such imposing dignity that male customers are apt to lower their voices and talk in hushed tones as they look over a bolt of fabric from which they will order a $300 suit.

Its customers are so rich and famous that Gentlemen's Quarterly, slick magazine of men's fashion, recently showed playboy-diplomat Porfiro Rubirosa in his new Dunhill wardrobe and Men's Wear, a glossy trade publication, showed rising young actor George Hamilton in his.

Since each magazine showed a wardrobe of unparalleled magnificence we dropped in on Leon Bloch who is head of the tailoring firm and occasionally is known as a bit of a playboy himself, and, of course, a well dressed one.

"You're always right if you are not too extreme," he began in response to a question about sartorial splendors. "Most of the people are wrong — their lapels are too narrow, both in ready-to-wear and custom made suits.

"A lot of people think a suit is not in style if you can see the lapel—the same people who will complain that something is out of style when it finally filters down to the masses. But if you pay a lot for clothes and go to a good tailor the lapels are always normal.

"And, although we set the trend, we were the first to make lapels and shoulders narrower. But we never carried it to the extreme and a man who travels abroad will not be recognized immediately as an American because his lapels are too narrow.

"Now the proper width of a lapel depends on the size of the man. But the average size 40 man should have a lapel roughly three inches wide. The slimmer, ivy type cut might have lapels as narrow as 2¾ inches."

Bloch would not quote the proper length for jackets but said television was causing them to become shorter. That is because television foreshortens a person and if he does not have on a short jacket "he looks as if he were standing in a hole."

As for new trends, he said, trousers are still getting trimmer and "again you see some of the boys carrying it to the extreme where they end up looking like beatniks or gigolos."

The trend toward pleatless trousers continues. Five or six years ago 95 per cent of trousers had pleats but the reverse is true now, he said. Length remains at shoetop level with an increase of cuffless trousers.

At night, Block said, a man must always wear black shoes and dark suits if he is to be well-dressed. People coming to New York for conventions and vacations don't dress right.

He spoke with favor of the bold striped shirts now having a great resurgence and noted they were being worn increasingly at night but with very conservative ties. Foulard handkerchiefs also are being worn at night by well-dressed men instead of the customary white handkerchiefs. And something new for a tuxedo breast pocket is a white silk handkerchief with multiple black stripes—but very subtle.

Tips Offered On Carving Turkey

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The fowl secret's out.

The way to succeed at carving the holiday turkey involves a three-pronged approach.

—Stand up to the chore with confidence and-or nonchalance.

—Brandish a sharp knife and lick your chops.

—Never mind all the official directions. Just reinforce beforehand with one, two or three cocktails.

But be careful, very careful, that the bird doesn't give you the slip and flop to the floor while you're attempting to extract neat chunks of dark and white meat for all looking on.

The directions for this approach to carving are based on a poll of writers who hail from Main Streets across the land and work at present for United Press International in New York.

Cutting the bird, it was found, is man's work more often than woman's. Only one out of five surveyed indicated that the wife carves.

Most males who shoulder the cutting job said they learned either from their dads or by trial and error.

When there's more error than correctness in the trial, here's a universal recommendation:

"Eat out or have a television dinner."

The ultra-cautious or bashful types, it was suggested, probably find confidence bolstered by carving the turkey in the kitchen—the sorry sight not to be seen by those partake of the feast.

Cooking the turkey, according to survey results, still pretty much is woman's work. But some women run afoul of the basics.

One husband reported that his wife scored zero a recent Thanksgiving by baking neck and other odd parts with the turkey—in the plastic bag in which they were encased!

In answer to the question — "How do you carve the turkey?"—respondents said:

"Hack, hack, hack."

"With a knife."

"Let the knife follow the line of least resistance."

"Thigh bone first, then drumstick separated. Then white meat."

"First take three martinis and a sharp knife. Then, try a fourth martini."

"With determination."

"Get razor sharp knife. Make sure to hold bird steady. Stage presence covers great many mistakes. Conversely, a little absentminded knife waving will silence most noisy guests."

Those surveyed also were asked their reaction to all the carving directions recommended by "pros."

Answers:

"They're for the birds."

"Nonsense."

"Don't recommend reading too many directions. You'll find yourself in 'grey' area of conflicting information, self-doubt."

"Phooey."

all times. One carver lost his turkey when he turned his back. The family dog trotted off with bird in jaws.

Also, plan ahead. One respondent, who described himself as "the world's greatest bird watcher," said his bride, for the first big dinner party, chose Thanksgiving.

The bridegroom, meanwhile, took pulses here and there on how to carve. He had the bird in hand, directions in mind, but when he reached for the carving tools, he drew a blank.

Wife or husband forgot to acquire a carving set.

No More Crackers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Fifty-five years ago Joseph William Taylor bought a pair of parrots in Mexico and presented one of them to Martha Smith. At that time the birds were estimated to be 25 years old.

Martha became Mrs. Harold Jenson and Polly Parrot became a member of the family. When it died recently at the age of about 80 everybody took it hard. But most upset of all is the Jensons' Siamese cat.

Chance To Chant

LAKEVILLE, Mich. (AP) — John Miller isn't out of high school yet but he has already started training to be an old-fashioned auctioneer.

The 17-year-old youth took a two-week training course at the Missouri Auction School in Kansas City, Mo., where he learned to size up merchandise, the business side of auctions and the sing-song chant of the veteran auctioneer.

John became interested in this career when his family bought farm equipment at an auction.

EAST HAMILTON, Tex. (AP)—When the Toledo Bend Reservoir on the Sabine River is completed in 1965 much of the scenic area of early Texas history will be inundated by water.

This is the site of Hamilton's Trading Post, established about 1828, and later the site of the town of Hamilton incorporated in 1839 by Sam Houston. It was there in 1847 that the first U. S. Post Office in the State of Texas was established.

Many Persons Are Hunting With Cameras

By BART KINCH

Photographers interested in a variation of "bring 'em back alive" hunting can find an exciting and rewarding pastime in hunting with a camera.

The art requires as much skill as that used by the sportsman who shoots his quarry with a gun.

The neophyte camera hunter may not wish to venture any farther into the wilds than his own back yard until he has gained some experience.

Some birds and squirrels are so used to humans it is possible to get within "shooting" distance without disturbing them, especially if a telephoto lens is used.

But whether hunting small game in your own backyard or larger birds and animals in the woods, certain tried and true approaches will prove helpful.

Take along flash equipment. Wooded areas often are too dark to make use of available light.

In all four seasons, in your back yard or out in the woods and fields, there are numerous opportunities for photographing birds close up.

Some study of the habits of the birds you wish to picture is necessary if you are to be successful. Nesting habits and food preferences should be noted.

For example, suet is a favorite of woodpeckers and chickadees and can be used as bait to bring these birds into camera range.

Most professional wildlife photographers use blinds of one kind or another to conceal themselves and their cameras, remaining only two or three feet away from the birds nesting place.

Many people are surprised to learn that an automobile can serve as an effective blind in many cases. Wildlife has little fear of motionless cars.

A remote control shutter release, homemade—such as a trip line—or otherwise is useful and sometimes necessary. Cameras tripped remotely by mechanical devices such as air releases, long extension cable releases or simple fish lines enable the photographer to get his camera in close without personally intruding and scaring the game.

This method is applicable to practically all wildlife. The camera must be secured so it will not be jarred when the shutter is tripped.

In photographing birds, the photographer at a discreet distance activates the shutter mechanism.

For wildlife such as deer, a trip line can be used which will activate the shutter when the animal brushes against it. Naturally, the camera must be preset with the proper shutter speed and lens opening and, if necessary flash units hooked up.

Which camera is best to use? Most experts prefer those which provide groundglass focusing such as a press, view or reflex —and they must be flash synchronized.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

POPULATION EXPLOSION — The effect of the population explosion on the world and particularly on the United States is one of the most serious threats to welfare, security and peace we face today. Few of us realize the far-reaching effects this accelerated rate of growth in world population can have on our individual lives.

During the past week I was fortunate to be invited by George Washington University to participate in the American Assembly to consider this subject—a three-day session held at Warrenton, Virginia. The Assembly included prominent Americans in the fields of government, education, business—Catholics, Protestants and Jews—representatives of every social and economic strata.

We were all concerned by the statistics on the enormous growth of population—from about a quarter-of-a-billion people in the entire world at the time of the birth of Christ to an estimated 8-billion by the year 2010, only 35 years from now.

These figures have a direct bearing on our planning for the future. Every time there is a 3% increase in population there must be a 16% increase in the means of supporting this number of people. You can readily see that this is going to cause communities all over the world great problems in the years ahead.

I believe this rapidly increasing population rate should be one of our greatest concerns today and that we must begin immediately to study and plan for the future on the basis of estimated growth statistics in order to maintain our security, our standard of living, and our social and economic welfare.

BLOOMINGTON DAM PLANS—The House of Representatives has authorized an appropriation of $100,000 to be used for surveys and planning of the Bloomington Dam on the Potomac. This was the entire amount requested by the Corps of Engineers for this part of the project.

This is certainly good news to all of us in Maryland's Sixth District. A dam and reservoir for flood control at the Bloomington site will triple the mean low-flow water at Luke, Maryland, and will, of course, increase the flow throughout the Potomac Valley.

This is another step forward in the development of the Potomac River Basin project which includes a series of dams on the Potomac and its tributaries.

The total estimated cost of the Bloomington Dam is around $50 million. You recall that the project was approved by Congress last year. It now remains for Congress to appropriate the necessary funds.

Status of the Bloomington Dam Project is now this:—The Public Works Appropriation Bill, 1964, which includes the $100,000 for planning, now goes to the Senate for approval.

The Corps of Engineers will then draw up the plans and present them to the Congress with a recommendation for amount of the appropriation necessary for construction.

It is hoped that this will be accomplished during the next session of the Congress.

Tantalizing Topic

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — "If Esther Hamilton Killed Her Grandmother" was the title of the Rev. Burton N. Cantrell's sermon in Wesley Memorial Church. The sermon concerned lack of interest in church activity and there is a story behind the unusual title.

While discussing titles as they appear in the local newspaper church directory, the church editor reported to the Rev. Mr. Cantrell that Miss Esther Hamilton had once remarked "You could print that I killed my grandmother down there and nobody would read it."

Time To Quit

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Becky Chapman, 9, has about decided to give up roller skates for good. Two years ago she fell and broke her left arm while trying to skate.

She recently persuaded her mother, Mrs. Carroll Chapman, to let her try the skates again. When she fell this time, she broke her right arm.

Put His Foot Down

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A federal bank examiner, standing near a vault of a downtown bank, noticed a peculiar object on the floor and commented to the guard, "Look! A fancy foot rest." And he rested his foot.

It was the vault alarm. Bells jangled. Guards and police swarmed to the vault. The redfaced examiner had to use his head to explain his way out of that one.

Scientists Not Sure What Surface Of Moon Is Made Of

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UPI) — U.S. space scientists, deep in plans to put a man on the moon, still do not know whether the astronaut will land with a jolting crash or a kind of marshmallow squish.

That's because they're not sure about the hardness or softness of the moon's surface.

There are two theories about the lunar crust, according to scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Ames Research Center here.

One theory holds that the surface of the moon is soft and fluffy and extends to an unknown depth. The other is that the mattress-like crust turns into a harder material about one-half inch from the surface.

To get a better idea about what the lunar surface is really like, the United States plans to launch two rockets from White Sands, N.M., next summer on a "dust collecting" mission.

Donald E. Gault, head of the planetary sciences branch at the center, outlines the $7.5 million project this way:

About 100 miles from the earth, the nose cone of the first rocket will open up like a flower, with three "leaves" extended, and collect space dust and debris raining down toward the moon. The collected material will be parachuted to earth for analysis.

Several days later, after the shower of dust has collided with the moon, the second rocket will be launched to collect samples of the resulting debris.

The two collections will be compared. If they differ, say Gault, "we can infer that the composition from the second collection is similar to the lunar surface."

The dust also will be compared with cosmic particles already collected, and scientists expect to make a full-scale analysis of more particles in 1965 when major meteor showers are expected.

NASA director James E. Webb recently said the dust collecting project, if successful, would be "a major step toward determining the composition of the moon before we go there."

Kissing Commuters

CLEVELAND (UPI)—One indicement to commuters to use Cleveland's rapid transit line to the suburbs of Shaker Heights is the "kissing loop."

Not In The Books

MOUNT PLEASANT, S.C. (AP) —Mrs. Mary McKamey, Tourist Information Center director, can usually supply the information requested, but this query stumped her.

A traveler, soaked from a heavy rain, rushed into the center and inquired breathlessly, "How much further down this road will I have to drive before I am out of the rain?"

It's His Job

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Most people restore antique cars as a hobby. Rollin O. Peters has spent more than 50 years repairing and rebuilding old autos as a business.

A complete restoration may take months or even years and cost as much as $10,000. If necessary parts can't be found he makes them.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ethel Merman will appear in two forthcoming back-to-back episodes for "The Lucy Show" on CBS. Lucille Ball hired Merm for only one show things turned out so well that the Desilu boss lady postponed its air date so a sequel could be written to provide a two-parter for the singing star. You should see the episodes early in 1964.

The success of one of the new television programs — ABC's "The Patty Duke Show"—has cost Broadway's "Oliver!" musical its "leading man," Paul O'Keefe, 12. He bowed out of the title role because he has a regular part in the Duke series as Patty's young brother. When it was certain the Lincoln program had caught on, it was decided the double load was too much for the lad and that, since there was nothing more to prove through the stage job, his career could best be served at the moment by sticking to the airwaves.

The Swiss Broadcasting Corporation has announced that the third annual competition for the Golden Rose of Montreux, an award for light television entertainment, will be held next April 17-25 in Montreux, variety programs, musical revues, comedy shows and programs of songs and light music are eligible for consideration. The entry deadline is Feb. 28. The Columbia Broadcasting System won the sculptured Golden Rose in 1963 for its "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall" special.

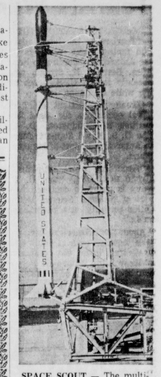

Noted novelist Jerome Weidman is creating a one-hour dramatic series for CBS-TV and Richelieu Productions for the 1534-65 season that will star Harry Guardino, one of most rapidly rising young actors. The leading character is a city newspaperman. The pilot episode is expected to be filmed here in December.

NBC drops "Redigo" as of Dec. 31 and turns its 8:30-9 p.m., Tuesday slot over to a nighttime version of the "You Don't Say!" game show, which has been a Monday-through-Friday afternoon fixture on the network since April.

Air Conditioned Cars

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Transit Authority's Lake Street and Douglas Park lines will become the first urban rapid transit routes in the nation to be equipped with air-conditioned cars on other than a test basis.

The CTA will spend $18.9 million on 180 of the air-conditioned cars, to be built by the Pullman Standard Car Co.

Encyclopedia Market Today Is Booming

By FREDERICK H. TREESH

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the trend from "spoonfed" teaching toward more independent study and research, publishers of reference volumes are finding a booming market in the American living room.

About 100 publishers are vying for the U.S. encyclopedia market, which last year totalled $325 million and is expected to increase by 15 per cent this year.

The potential customers are the parents of the 47 million American children going to school this year and the prime market place is the family par lor where nearly 85 per cent of all encyclopedia sales are made.

A multi-volume reference set is a major investment and, as such, it behooves the potential buyer to choose wisely. The problem, the experts say, is not to find the one best book but the one that is best for the particular student or educational situation involved.

"No one set is right for everyone," advises Dr. Lowell A. Martin, a former dean of the Graduate School of library science at Rutgers University and now editorial director for Grolier Inc.

In addition to price, Martin said, the things a buyer should consider are the suitability of content, the authoritativeness of the writers, whether the volume includes adequate index, study guides and bibliographies and whether the publisher has a built-in method of keeping the set up to date.

On suitability of content, Martin said some reference sets are designed for younger readers including primary grade students, others are tailored especially for the high school and college students and others are more detailed and scholarly to appeal to the most thorough academician.

"All good encyclopedias are written by experts in special subjects — not by experts in encyclopedia publishing," Martin said. Authors of the sets his own firm publishes (Encyclopedia Americana and Encyclopedia International) include more than 4,000 persons.

"But we're kidding ourselves if we think we can put all knowledge into a reference set" Martin said. "There is no way you could do that in 20 volumes — or even 50 or 100.

"The point is to include the subject matter most frequently needed and prepare it in such a way as to encourage the reader to further examine the subject."

He enumerated study guides, outlines of additional books on the various subjects as effective means of encouraging additional research.

Antique Plane

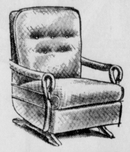

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Herbert M. Harkcom's private plane is a 1927 model, but he couldn't be a prouder owner if it were the latest type of jet.

For the past two years Harkcome, a flight test pilot, has been working at restoring the antique four-passenger, one-pilot transport, designated an FC-2 and the only airplane of its kind in existence. He has put in thousands of man-hours overhauling the plane, which has now been certified airworthy by the Federal Aviation Agency.

Vermont Town Hoping To Get Electricity

By CARL COBB

GRANBY, Vt. (UPI)—Thanksgiving marks the end of candlelight, kerosene lamps and wood stoves for two tiny hamlets deep in the northern Vermont woods.

This town and neighboring Victory, situated about 50 miles south of the Canadian border, were to get electricity on that date, the last two of the state's 246 towns to move into the "modern" era.

Power lines were strung across miles of rugged terrain under conditions described with typical Vermont taciturnity as "difficult."

Though the Nov. 27 deadline was set tentatively, Harold L. Durgin, president of Central Vermont Public Service Corp., said: "That's what we're shooting for. We're going as fast as we can."

He estimated total cost of bringing in electricity at $127,000 for which the approximately 90 townspeople will pay 3 cents per kilowatt hour compared with 2.5 cents charged in residential areas of towns or cities.

It would be cheap at any price. Most of the residents wrestle with their own power plants or wood and coal-burning stoves and furnaces during the hard winter.

"Our light plant cost about $800 and they only last a few years," Mrs. Rodney Noble of Granby explained. "And we're always having to go out in the cold to fix it in the morning or at night."

"A little supper" was planned to celebrate the first night of electric light.

The annual Victory-Granby "Holiday in the Hills" fall festival, originally started to demonstrate the powerless plight of the communities, was to be dedicated to the Northeastern Vermont Development Association and to press, radio and television for their help.

The towns had a total treasury of 67 cents when they first began their fight for electricity in 1958.

Gov. Philip H. Hoff, also credited with helping, expected to attend the ceremonies.

Residents weren't quite sure what electricity would do for the remote area aside from making life more comfortable.

However, Melvin Henderson planned to build a tourist home and Mrs. Vera Bishop was going to begin selling lots with log cabins for tourists.

Most of the townspeople work at lumbering or on small farms. Neither town has a store and the only school is the Granby Elementary School.

Johnson Seen Demo Nominee Next Year

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Matthew E. Welsh said Tuesday he is certain President Johnson will be the Democratic party's nominee next year for a full term.

Gov. Welsh said at a press conference the Democratic party's vice presidential nominee will be the man "or woman" Johnson wants as a running mate.

State Booster

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Thad F. Adams, whose food brokerage company does business in every state and several foreign countries, has launched a one-man campaign to lure more tourists to Colorado.

Adams' Company uses special brilliant pink envelopes across the back of which are scenic views of the state in blue and white which have a three-dimensional effect when held to the light. "It's a way of showing how beautiful Colorado is and of making people want to visit here," Adams explains.

Tourists Want To Visit Antarctic

McMURDO STATION (UPI) — Tourism is the latest problem facing Navy planners in the Antarctic, according to Rear Adm. Bernard M. Strean, who recently toured U. S. bases on the white continent.

Strean is assistant chief of naval operations for fleet operations in Washington, D. C. The U. S. Naval Support Force in Antarctica is part of his command.

"According to present plans," Strean told UPI, "the U. S. Navy is going to continue support of National Science Foundation projects on a permanent basis."

About 3,000 American servicemen together with 11 ships and 30 aircraft under the command of Rear Adm. James R. Reedy will be working here through early March to establish permament year-round sites during the comparatively mild summer season.

Strean said permanent bases will be located at McMurdo Sound, on the geographic South Pole and in Marie Byrd Land.

Two additional sites, Hallett Station, a joint U. S.-New Zealand camp and Eights Station in Ellsworth Land, named for U. S. scientist James Eights, also may become permanent, he said.

"But we've been under pressure from travel agencies, particularly Australia's Qantas Airline, which wants to bring tourists to the Antarctica," Strean said.

The tall, soft spoken admiral said he had no objection to tourists but had no intention of giving them U. S. Navy logistic support.

Antarctica is the only continent on earth that hasn't had any tourists.

"We're equipped to provide logistical support — food, clothing, shelter and supplies — to our scientists. But we're not in the tourist business," Strean said.

The Navy has advised Qantas Airlines and other travel agencies, the admiral said, that if they wish to fly tourists to Antarctica, let them bring ships to McMurdo Sound, tie them to the ice and use them as hotels.

"Then the airline can provide its own food, water and other facilities for the tourists it brings down," Strean said.

This year about 150 American scientists are conducting studies at a dozen permanent and temporary stations located throughout the 6 million square mile ice-packed continent.

To keep them alive, major Navy projects for Operation Deep Freeze 1964 include building a sea water distillation plant, resupply of 20,000 measurement supplies of food and equipment and a scientific survey of Palmer Peninsula which stretches toward the tip of South America.

Thanksgiving In A Time Of Tragedy

In any time of national or personal tragedy, it is naturally difficult to count our blessings, however many we may have.

The disaster that befell us as a nation last Friday will, of course, be in the minds of all of us on this Thanksgiving Day, 1963. We are, after all, human; and this should in itself be a source of gratitude as much as it is a source of our national grief. For, despite the tragedy of President Kennedy's death, deepened further by the ugly murder of his alleged assassin without benefit of trial, there are at least three things directly connected with the sad event that give all Americans cause to be thankful.

First, we should be grateful that we had the benefit of President Kennedy's leadership for as long as we were granted it. Those of us who disagreed most often and most bitterly with him nevertheless benefited greatly from his courage, his vigor and his sense of purpose, qualities which made him an inspiration and an example to us all, regardless of party.

Second, there is the exceptionally high caliber of the man who succeeds him, President Lyndon B. Johnson. Although no one ever can say with any degree of certainty what sort of President a man will be, we do know that the new President is a dedicated American of high purpose, a man who gets things done and who has courage, humanity and humility.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, we should be thankful that ours is a system of government with automatic and absolute continuity. Assassination in our country does not mean revolution. This is no time for breast-beating or flag-waving, if indeed there ever is such a time. But even in these tragic circumstances, America is at least thrice blessed.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

President Johnson

WASHINGTON

"If I didn't want the job myself, I'd get behind Lyndon. He's the ablest man I know in American politics, and he really cares about this country as I want a President to care."

In this fashion, in an interval of his hard-fought contest for the Democratic nomination and almost off-hand, President John F. Kennedy gave his own estimate of his chief rival of that time, President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In President Kennedy's years in office, his false friends (of whom every President has a few) and his Vice President's false friends (of whom every politician also has a few) did everything in their power to poison the Kennedy-Johnson relationship.

It is a tribute to the character of both men that the attempt always failed. In a certain sense, it is a miracle that it did fail, for no Vice President, in the nature of his office, can ever hold more than a watching brief.

President Kennedy was an active, leading, all-directing chief of the American state. President Eisenhower was a passive, reacting, watching-and-waiting chief of state. But even President Eisenhower publicly and somewhat cruelly admitted that he could not call to mind a single contribution made to his Administration by his Vice President, despite all the Madison Avenue build-up of the countless contributions of Richard M. Nixon.

President Kennedy would never have said that sort of thing about his Vice President, for he always valued and constantly sought President Johnson's advice on every kind of matter.

Yet the fact remains that it must have been enormously hard for President Johnson to be only the man holding a watching brief in the Kennedy years, even if called upon as a valued advisor—as he was; and even if required to participate actively in the policy-making process at all times of serious crisis—as he also was.

It must have been hard for President Johnson to hold only a watching brief, because he is an almost pure man of action, in the way that his predecessor never was. No pure man of action, like President Johnson, can simultaneously act and stand apart, so to say, coolly judging and even on occasion mocking his own action. President Kennedy did that. President Johnson will never do that.

President Kennedy's contemplative, intellectual side appealed to the American Left. Thus the Left forgave him a degree of conservatism, manifested in the tax bill, for instance, which ought to have earned, but of course did not earn, the prayerful gratitude of the whole business community.

President Johnson's character as a pure man of action appeals to the American Right, and especially to the senior leaders of the Senate and House who acknowledge him as the great master of their craft. Thus he has had support from many who suspected President Kennedy, and he also arouses idiotic suspicions among many who have no smallest ground for suspecting him.

This only goes to show the powerful political influence of silly, superficial, even rather vulgar stereotypes. But if you look behind the stereotypes, what do you find in Lyndon Baines Johnson? You find, in fact, the qualities that are most wanted in a President.

You find common sense, courage, intelligence, a knack of getting things done, and the deep, true concern for this country that President Kennedy himself noted in the quotation above given. To this summary of President Johnson's prime qualities, one must add, with warm gratitude, that the new President has not put a foot wrong in the tragic, difficult circumstances of these last days. Lyndon Baines Johnson is in fact a very big man, not just physically, but in all his dimensions as a human being. That was why John Fitzgerald Kennedy chose him as his Vice President, on the specific ground, as this reporter can testify, "that you've just got to think about what might happen."

When that choice was made, it bitterly offended many compromisers and breast-beaters. But although President Johnson will no doubt make his mistakes, as all Presidents must do, this widely unexpected choice should later be remembered as sovereign proof of the enormous enduring good luck of the United States, just as the untimely death of President Kennedy will be remembered as a cruel American loss.

Safe From Assassins

A Solemn Reminder Of Our Mission On Earth

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A change has come over us in America and perhaps over the world. It's an involuntary change, to be sure, precipitated by the sudden passing of a world leader, the late President of the United States John F. Kennedy. But it could be a change that forces a new unity in the world. It could be a change that brings stability to our home front of friction and emotional controversy.

The mood of this country and of the peoples abroad today is one of serious contemplation. Hundreds of millions of persons on this continent and on other continents saw by television or heard by radio the funeral services for the American President. The impact of this solemnity cannot be measured as yet, but it may have put into perspective the fateful forces that tear nations apart or threaten to destroy human lives in a military conflict between powerful countries.

Representatives of more than 50 nations came to attend the final rites for the dead President, including President Charles de Gaulle of France, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Great Britain, Premier Hayato Ikeda of Japan, Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan of the Soviet Union. Heads of state walked in silence for a half-mile behind the caisson which carried the casket bearing the man who strove so earnestly to further the cause of world peace. Nearly 100 dignitaries from all over the world were present at the church and burial services.

What must have been the thoughts of these leaders as they meditated on the meaning of mortal life and its lost opportunities!

Thanks to the inventions of man, instantaneous communication throughout the world has been made possible. No such wide coverage on the same day, simultaneously with the occurrence of a news event, has been achieved in the past. The total watching and listening audience was probably the greatest ever assembled.

But since communication has been so effective once on this occasion, it challenges man to employ it in the future in the cause of self-preservation and human survival. For the death of millions by nuclear war has been envisioned as feasible with today's weapons. While treaties and agreements to ban certain nuclear tests have been signed, there is no assurance that small wars will not provoke bigger ones and lead to tremendous destruction of human life.

As one man passed so quickly from our midst to the world beyond, this single death could encourage the peoples of this world to reach out for unity and a better way of communicating with each other in order to restrain the ambitions and evil purposes that arise in the minds of thoughtless rulers.

Within the United States, too, the tragedy can have a strange sequel — a turning toward the ideals expressed by the departed leader. Opinions will differ as to the efficacy of particular proposals. Debate will continue on the merits of various legislative programs. But there will be a new awareness of the depth of feeling throughout this country about the importance of national unity.

The new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, fortunately is a man of long experience in Congress and particularly in the post of Senate majority leader. He has an intimate friendship with many members on Capitol Hill and acquaintance with their state problems — even closer perhaps than his predecessor happened to enjoy.

Mr. Johnson is a skillful negotiator and mediator. He knows how to win support for the measures he champions. He has a keen understanding of public-opinion trends. Like every Vice President who has been given the task of filling out a Presidential term, he will seek to maintain the administration's basic policies.

As for world policy, President Johnson will be under a strain in getting familiar quickly with all the nuances of our delicate relations with other governments, but he can apply the same perceptive qualities to foreign affairs as he does to domestic policies.

Above all, the influence of John F. Kennedy will remain to spur the new President on to achieve the unfinished task — an understanding between rival powers which could give assurance of an era of peace.

It will be recalled that the words of the 86th Psalm proclaim that "all nations whom Thou has made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord, and shall glorify thy name." The poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning wrote, "And life is perfected by death." Longfellow's famous verse comes to mind. He wrote:

"There is no death! What seems so is transition;
"This life of mortal breath
"Is but a suburb of the life Elysian,
"Whose portal we call death."

As Cardinal Cushing said on Monday at the final mass for the late President Kennedy, "Life is not taken away, but is transformed."

The whole world listened on Monday. Maybe it will continue to listen to words that challenge man to fulfill his mission and bring peace to a distraught world.

VICE PRESIDENT? — Some political observers think they're beginning to see how a woman can be put on a national political ticket as a vice presidential candidate. The woman is Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine; the political party involved is GOP; the presidential candidate on such a ticket would be Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Mrs. Smith, a widow, insists she is not "running" for the vice presidential nomination—that that person is traditionally picked by the presidential nominee — and that therefore the second place nomination cannot be sought. However, she has been widely mentioned as an acceptable Goldwater political running mate, and her voting record and political background would nicely complement his.

Senator Smith, however, says she is thinking about something else. She is thinking about seeking the presidential nomination of her party, and she plans to announce her decision early next month. Usually, when a political figure says he, or she, is thinking of running for office, his mind already is made up to run. The idea of announcing an advance decision date is to build up public interest in the affirmative announcement when it comes.

Realistically, Mrs. Smith must be aware that she has little chance indeed of capturing the No. 1 spot on her party's political ticket. However, if she can stir up national interest as a pre-convention candidate, her obvious assets as a vice presidential running mate will be enhanced in the eyes of a man like Goldwater who must seek a way to offset his own vote limitations.

POLITICAL CHEMISTRY — Backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president are sporting automobile bumper stickers that read "AuH2O-64." Translation: "Goldwater in '64." It is one of the favorites of the Goldwater publicity operation.

But some Goldwater opponents are resorting to chemical symbolism, too. The Florida Herald Democrat, organ of that state's Democratic executive committee, appeared in Washington recently with the following head over an anti-Goldwater story: "AuH2O or FeS2."

Rusk Only Cabinet Member Certain To Be Retained By New President

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There are four big questions the American public is asking about their new President: Will his health stand the strain of the presidency? What will be the cabinet changes? Will he run again? Will he continue the policies of John F. Kennedy?

The answers to these are such that, in my opinion, the American people can be thankful on this Thanksgiving Day that they had Lyndon Johnson waiting on the sidelines in case of tragedy.

The job of waiting on the sidelines, incidentally, is probably the toughest part about being Vice President and is the reason why there has been friction between almost every President and Vice President in American history. The relation between JFK and LBJ was a notable exception.

Some people figured that Johnson, a human dynamo, would never be content to be the tail on the Kennedy dog. But Lyndon, long trained in politics, knew where the political power was. He knew the Vice President could not run the country. So, despite the wisecracks about "What's become of Lyndon Johnson?" he concentrated on being obscure. It was hard for him to do. Yet he did it with good grace.

Kennedy, in turn, brought him into more policy-making conferences, into more vital decisions than any other Vice President in history.

That's the background. Here is an attempt to answer the four big questions:

No. 1—Johnson's health?—When Jack Anderson queried the Vice President about this, Lyndon referred him to his physician, Dr. Samuel Clark, who reported that six months after Johnson's massive heart attack he was normal in every way. His pulse was normal, the size of his heart was normal, and his weight was normal. Some scar tissue remains, but the doctor said there was no reason why Johnson could not lead a completely normal life.

Having watched Johnson operate as Senate majority leader, I confess I have been amazed at his energy, his late hours, and the rigor and vigor of his life. He used to sit at his desk, drinking black coffee, phones ringing, two stenographers taking dictation. And he kept this up all day.

The way Johnson passed the first civil rights bills in 80 years is very simple. He brought in the cots. The way to break a filibuster, he figured, was not cloture but to require Senators to be in the Senate all night. The older men could take a catnap on the cots, but he kept the Southern Senators on the floor night and day. He himself slept little. No majority leader of the Senate in my recollection, and I have seen a lot of them, ever worked harder.

Kennedy was considered a great man to use the telephone, but he didn't compare with Johnson. I have sometimes received calls from Johnson as late as 1:30 a. m. He was still working in the Senate.

No. 2—Changes in the Cabinet?—After the first period of White House transition and adjustment passes, Bob Kennedy may well resign as Attorney General. His was a very close relationship with his late brother. He will want to retire. Johnson will urge him to stay and will be sincere about it. If he insists on retiring, Johnson may well appoint his own attorney, Abe Fortas, former Under Secretary of the Interior.

Rusk Will Stay

The Cabinet member Johnson will lean on most heavily will be Secretary of State Dean Rusk. There will be no change. Adlai Stevenson will ask to be relieved as ambassador to the UN. He and Johnson have not been too compatible. This will be a loss because Stevenson has done the best job in history for the United States at the UN.

The Cabinet member who will come under heaviest fire will be Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara. Though the best Secretary of Defense in history, the top brass don't like him, and the top brass have been close to Johnson. He was a member of the Armed Services Committee and the Preparedness Committee. He will listen to their complaints and as a result McNamara may go.

This is a by-play the Republicans will be watching with intense interest. Because if McNamara, a Republican, should retire, he would owe no political debt to Johnson and would be the ideal GOP nominee for President.

Before the year is over, probably all members of the Kennedy Cabinet, except Dean Rusk, will retire.

No. 3—Will LBJ run again?—The answer, unequivocally, is yes. Johnson can no more stay away from government and politics than a race fan can stay away from the track.

Furthermore, he will have no trouble getting the Democratic nomination. The President always has the prestige and the power to get renominated.

In my opinion, Bob Kennedy will not contest that nomination. He is too saddened by his brother's death, too realistic to take on the race—even if he wanted to.

Lyndon Johnson will be renominated and, barring acts of God, elected. It will be extremely difficult for the Republicans to defeat him.

No. 4—The policies of the Johnson administration?—In general they will follow Kennedy's. Lyndon, a past master at Congressional legislation, will take pride in passing the Kennedy program as a personal monument to the late President.

He may have to modify the civil rights bill somewhat, but he will not detract from its long range effectiveness. And he will get it passed without much more than token opposition.

Foreign policy remains the real question mark of the Johnson administration. Generally speaking, Johnson will attempt to follow the coexistence policies of the Kennedy administration. He will try to restrain his natural Texas impulse to wave the Flag. If so, and if he uses his great gift of negotiation that he has used so effectively in the Senate. He could lead the nation a long way down the road to peace.

Death In The Family

By John Crosby

LONDON

I was at Covent Garden with a lone standing-room-only ticket to Margot Fonteyn and Rudolf Nureyev's performance of "Marguerite and Armand." During the intermission I was in the immense bar, drinking coffee, when an attendant came up to me and said, "Are you John Crosby? You are wanted downstairs."

I had no idea what this was about, but I followed him down. An enormous doorman, who in his top hat looked eight feet tall, told me I had an urgent phone call. While he was trying to get my caller back, the doorman said, "Terrible news." "What news?" I asked. He told me that President Kennedy had been assassinated and handed me the phone.

It was Granada Television asking me if I'd go on and say something and, in a state of deep shock, I said yes and got my coat and left Covent Garden. They all had their eyes on me, that monster doorman, the ticket takers, and the ushers, and I will never forget the look of deepest compassion for a stunned, forlorn American who has just heard that his President had been shot.

We Americans have been smothered in kindness ever since the terrible news struck. The English telephone as if a member of the family had passed away and ask if there's anything they can do. There's nothing they could do except what they did do, which was perfect. I can remember saying on television that I could see no good in this, no gleam of comfort at all, in this terrible act. But now I'm not so sure. The next day a friend called from Paris to say that the French had never felt closer to the Americans than in this dark hour. And, God knows, the French haven't felt that way in a long time. Neither have the English. There's been a great drawing together of our friends and allies.

When you live abroad, you learn to live with anti-Americanism, which lies never far from the surface. Suddenly all this is swept away and we are terribly vulnerable to all this kindness. And suddenly you feel terribly far from home.

The impact of President Kennedy's death abroad on both great and small can hardly be described. He loomed larger in death than in life (as doesn't everyone) and he loomed much, much larger because he was ours, not theirs.

"There has never been known such intense worldwide grief as is now felt at President Kennedy's death," said the Sunday Times in its lead editorial. "Before the assassination one could only half appreciate the weight of responsibility which he carried with such obvious enjoyment and vigor. Now it can be seen clearly that in every country he was a source of confidence and hope, just as much in the world at large as in the United States, almost as much in Russia as in the West. He was the one authentic hero of the postwar world, and he has been killed."

I don't know that any American could have written that paragraph. Just as the most wholehearted admiration of Winston Churchill came from us (the English always felt we went a bit overboard on Sir Winston), the English admiration for our heroes is untempered by regional or partisan distempers.

This drawing together, this feeling of acute dependence and loss and grief (one newspaper here even said, "He was our President as well," an almost inconceivable statement under any other circumstances), the oneness of almost the whole world will not last very long. Already Colin Welch in the Telegraph writes that the assassination "may powerfully influence the argument for an independent deterrent, thus retaining the power in an emergency to act independently of a United States which may no longer be as it has been."

Even in the midst of the deep kindness and sympathy one is aware of the great degree of misunderstanding of America and Americans. "Will there be a pogrom against the right wing?" one man asked when we thought it was a right wing extremist who shot the President. There have been some marvelous television obituaries, especially an analysis of him by Alistair Cooke. But there have been some well-meaning awful ones, too. One TV program I saw—with the best heart in the world—portrayed President Kennedy as the lone individual standing between the Negro and the rest of us raving Americans—all of us equipped with whips and police dogs.

The most emotional moment for me came Saturday when I attended Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya" at the Old Vic, which has been acclaimed here as the supreme achievement of the contemporary English stage.

At the end, Sir Laurence Olivier, who heads the cast, cut short the applause immediately. In view of the circumstances, he asked the audience to stand for the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner." I've not heard the National Anthem in 18 months and I must say I've never felt so deeply moved by it as I was standing in the alien corn amid all those Englishmen.

Addiction Problem Of Hallucinogenic Drugs

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

A few months ago we mentioned the growing medical and social problems associated with the use of a variety of drugs that cause hallucinations, concentrating on lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD-25). But there are others, including stramonium, mescaline (peyote), psilocybin, marijuana, and morning glory seeds.

Here is another story on the mind distorting products. An 18-year-old beatnick was found early one morning wandering through an apartment building, completely naked. Someone gave him a pink blanket that clashed somewhat with his long, reddish-brown hair and beard. The young man was in a pleasant mood and said he had lost his clothes in a fire, later confiding he took them off because they were dirty. He told of having been on a drinking spree but there was no smell of alcohol on his breath.

The young man was hospitalized and his wife notified. In time, Dr. Edward S. Dean of San Francisco learned that the patient was familiar with a variety of drugs, including Asthmador, an old-time asthma remedy containing stramonium and belladonna. Stramonium comes from Jimson weed and contains atropine and several other drugs. The young man admitted taking this product to bring on hallucinations.

According to an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the promoters minimize the dangers and, to sell their wares, use such hogwash as " . . . less harmful than aspirin or alcohol," " . . . less dangerous than riding in a motor car," and " . . . spiritual and intellectual rewards are vivid, wonderful, and inexpressible." Others assert the drugs " . . . free the mind for creative activity that otherwise would be beyond reach."

No wonder these products are so popular among certain so-called Bohemian intellectuals. They expect to experience a little hell or heaven but usually end up stupid and confused or hallucinated and excited. The editorial makes this statement: "Those attracted to the hallucinogenic drugs often are those most likely to be harmed by them."

WHITE LIGHTNING

J. D. writes: My 58-year-old husband drinks three bottles of whisky and one case of beer a week. Could this intake be responsible for the hot flashes he complains of?

REPLY

No, even though whisky is sometimes called firewater, Hot flashes are of neurocirculatory origin and are not necessarily related to the change of life.

OVERALL PUFFING

Mrs. F. T. writes: What makes a pregnant woman swell all over from fluid in the tissues?

REPLY

Toxemia of pregnancy is the main cause. In this condition, the blood pressure goes up and albumin appears in the urine.

OXYGEN FOR EMPHYSEMA

Mrs. I writes: A neighbor has emphysema and his lungs are gone. The only relief he gets is from using a tank of oxygen a month. Isn't this too much?

REPLY

No, even though he uses a standard sized tank.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"My poor husband," moaned a woman to the town's leading psychoanalyst. "He's convinced he's a parking meter." The analyst regarded the silent, woe-begone fellow holding the wife's hand, and asked, "Why doesn't he say something for himself? Can't he talk?" The wife said, "How can he — with all those dimes and nickels in his mouth?"

George Jessel, making one of his innumerable after-dinner orations, noticed with chagrin that his audience was growing rather restless. "Take it easy," he assured the wrigglers. "Like Lady Godiva on the last lap of her historic ride, I am drawing near my close."

Robert Bennett poses three questions in the Dramatists Guild Bulletin that play lovers will find challenging: 1. Why are there so many more rewriters these days than writers? 2. Why does grand opera sound grander in every language than in English? 3. When the old theaters are all replaced by new parking lots, what will the cars come there for?

Mrs. Loomis read aloud a newspaper item about a movie patron who arose from his seat while viewing a picture and shot himself. "Hmm," mused Mr. Loomis, "I believe I saw that picture!"

President Urges Reading Of JFK Thanksgiving Proclamation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asks that the Thanksgiving proclamation issued by the late John F. Kennedy be read in churches throughout the nation today as a memorial to him.

The President's statement said:

"One of the last messages of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy to his fellow countrymen was the Thanksgiving Day proclamation which he issued on November 4, 1963. I urge that his proclamation be read in the churches of the United States in their services on November 28 as a memorial to him. I also ask that the newspapers, and the television and radio stations make it available to all of the American people by including it in their recognition of this first and most solemn of our holidays. We dedicate Thanksgiving Day, as we have for over 300 years, as a day to give thanks to God for His gifts and the sustenance which He has provided in undertaking the tasks of our nation."

The proclamation:

The White House
Thanksgiving Day, 1963
By the President of the United States of America
A proclamation:

Over three centuries ago, our forefathers in Virginia and in Massachusetts, far from home in a lonely wilderness, set aside a time of thanksgiving. On the appointed day, they gave reverent thanks for their safety, for the health of their children, for the fertility of their fields, for the love which bound them together and for the faith which united them with their God.

So too when the Colonies achieved their independence, our first President in the first year of his first administration proclaimed November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God" and called upon the people of the new Republic to "beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions ... to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue ... and generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

And so too, in the midst of America's tragic Civil War, President Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday of November, 1863, as a day to renew our gratitude for America's "fruitful fields," for our "national strength and vigor," and for all our "singular deliverances and blessings."

Much time has passed since the first Colonists came to rocky shores and dark forests of an unknown continent, much time since President Washington led a young people into the experience of nationhood, much time since President Lincoln saw the American nation through the ordeal of fraternal war—and in these years our population, our plenty and our power have all grown apace. Today we are a nation of nearly two hundred million souls, stretching from coast to coast, on into the Pacific and north toward the Arctic, a nation enjoying the fruits of an ever-expanding agriculture and industry and achieving standards of living unknown in previous history. We give our humble thanks for this.

Yet, as our power has grown, so has our peril. Today we give our thanks, most of all, for the ideals of honor and faith we inherit from our forefathers—for the decency of purpose, steadfastness of resolve and strength of will, for the courage and the humility, which they possessed and which we must seek every day to emulate. As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them.

Let us therefore proclaim our gratitude to Providence for manifold blessings—let us be humbly thankful for inherited ideals—and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human beings throughout the world.

Now, therefore, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, 55 Stat. 862 (5 U.S. C. 87B), designating the fourth Thursday of November in each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 28, 1963, as a day of national thanksgiving.

On that day let us gather in sanctuaries dedicated to worship and in homes blessed by family affection to express our gratitude for the glorious gifts of God; and let us earnestly and humbly pray that He will continue to guide and sustain us in the great unfinished tasks of achieving peace, justice, and understanding among all men and nations and of ending misery and suffering wherever they exist.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this fourth day of November in the Year of Our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-three, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-eighth.

John F. Kennedy

Flashing Blue Light

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please keep encouraging girls as well as boys to get a high school diploma and then go on and get some sort of training which will enable them to earn a living later in life if they have to.

I knew it all. Nobody could tell me anything. My husband was 22 and had a college degree. I was beautiful and sweet and he didn't think it was important for me to stay in high school and get my diploma. Why should I have to know anything? He would take care of me for the rest of my life! So, my heavy-hearted father walked me down the aisle and I was married at 17.

We had three children in six years. I devoted myself to my family. My husband went to night school and got a master's degree in business administration. Strange that he appreciated the value of education for himself—but not for me.

Five weeks ago my husband dropped dead of a heart attack at the age of 42. He left $15,000 in insurance and a $20,000 mortgage on our home, plus some big bills. I have three children to send to college within the next five years. I must go to work but I'm not trained for anything. I realize now as never before the necessity of preparing for the future, since none of us knows what it may bring.

Please print this letter as a warning from someone who had to learn the hard way.

SAD SANDRA

DEAR SANDRA: Many thanks for your letter. I hope the thousands of young girls see it and take the hint.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in a plant which has an unattended newsstand. It is the habit of certain employes to help themselves to the newspaper which prints your column. They take it into the cafeteria and read for about 10 minutes before the work day begins.

When they put the paper back, it usually has doughnut grease, breadcrumbs or coffee stains on it. Poor chumps (like me) who pay have to read a crumpled, pawed-over paper.

It would not upset me so if these people were destitute and couldn't afford the few pennies. But as is usually the case, the ones who have the most money are the cheapest.

I am writing in the hope that you will print my letter so the people involved will see how petty this practice looks to others. —PAYING CUSTOMER

DEAR CUSTOMER: There will always be people who want something for nothing. For them there is no cure. They can't be shamed, cajoled or chided into changing their ways, so don't try.

Surely all the papers aren't pawed over, so why not take yours from the bottom of the pile?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If a girl slaps a boy's face, for no reason whatever, is the boy justified in slapping her back?

Several of us teen-agers are waiting for your answer because it happened to one of the greatest kids in our crowd and we want to know if what he did was right. Thank you. — JASPER, IND.

DEAR JASPER: There's a reason for everything. The fact that you don't know the reason doesn't mean there is none.

The boy who got a clop in the chops may or may not have done a little something to earn it. If he was absolutely innocent then the girl is an erratic impulsive loon.

A boy who hits a girl for any reason whatever puts himself squarely in her class. The better approach is to take her straight home and lose her phone number.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are usually right — but not always. I would like to challenge you on one issue. You said in a recent column it is rude to interrupt people when they are speaking, and that only a clod would cut in right in the middle fo a sentence.

Obviously you have never lived in Louisville. All the native women in Louisville have been vaccinated with a phonograph needle. They have a habit of ending every sentence with "and" which is a neat way of holding the floor indefinitely both in person or on the telephone and it is just one endless line of yakkity yak yak yak and a person can't get a word in edgewise and if you think you can change the subject forget it because they go on and on until you could just tear your hair right out of your head by the roots and all the while you are becoming more and more furious because a yes or a no would have been sufficient and then I pick up the paper and see where Ann Landers says it is rude to interrupt.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUS: I know plenty of women — and men, too, — who have never lived in Louisville and you could explode before they give up the floor so please don't blame one of the loveliest cities in the world for what is really a human weakness and I loved your letter!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Are we old-fashioned, as our 16-year-old daughter says? Please set us straight. Or if she is the one who needs it, tell us and we'll set HER straight.

Our daughter's steady boy friend usually arrives anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour before she is ready to leave. He marches directly upstairs and goes into her bedroom "to keep her company" while she finishes dressing, combs her hair or puts on her makeup.

Sometimes other members of the family are upstairs. We have two younger daughters and they resent this invasion of privacy. Often, however, there is no one upstairs except this 16-year-old and her boy friend — and we don't like it. She says we are square. Are we?

—APPLETON, WIS.

DEAR WIS: A gentleman does not go upstairs and wander around looking for his date.

If this boy doesn't know better and your daughter hasn't sense enough to tell him, then as parents you should not hesitate to teach this square a few simple manners.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper encolsing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keyser High Attendance Record Good

KEYSER—Attendance at Keyser High School for the third month of the current school term reached 96.3 per cent, according to Principal James W. Goldsworthy, who said that the attendance banner was won by the homeroom of Mrs. Delores Kesner which posted 98.3 per cent.

The junior class registered the highest percentage of the grade groups for the second consecutive month by compiling 97.3 per cent. The seniors followed with 97.2; sophomores, 96.5; 7th grade, 95.8; 8th grade, 95.5; and freshmen, 95.3.

Other homerooms registering 97 per cent or better for the month were those of Mrs. E. E. Church, Mrs. Mildred Thompson, Frank Calemine, Mrs. Alice Lee, Joseph Stanislawczyk, Miss Norma Frum, Miss Louise Ward, James Broome, Ira Miller, Mrs. Irene Raines, Ray T. Stickley, Mrs. Laura Marks, Mrs. Virginia Wright.

Total enrollment for the month was 1228 including 621 boys and 607 girls.

Fire Destroys Private Garage

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Moorefield Volunteer Firemen responded to an alarm Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. Roy Bean in Bean Settlement. The garage and contents were destroyed by the blaze which started when Mrs. Bean attempted to start her automobile. The backfire ignited the blaze.

The North River Volunteer Fire Company also responded to the alarm and the two fire companies prevented spread of the flames to nearby buildings and dwelling.

The Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company continues to be plagued by false alarms.

Moorefield firemen were called to the Potomac Farms Dairy, Monday when an electric motor became overheated, causing considerable smoke. Damage was confined to the motor.

Repair Shop Opens At Lost City

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Paul Dispanet, manager of Lost River Farm Supply, Inc., at Lost City, reports the opening of a new garage and repair shop in connection with the store and building supplies. Dispanet said that in addition to the repair of cars, trucks and tractors the new service will repair small motors, chain saws and the like. A welding service will also be available to residents of the Lost River Valley.

The new facility will be open for service on Monday, December 2.

The World Council of Churches admitted nine new church bodies this year to increase its membership to 209 denominations from 80 countries. The 209 churches represent about 350 million members.

Engineers will heat a section of a road in Odense, Denmark, to melt ice and snow. Plastic pipe is being inserted two inches under the road's surface in the experiment.

County Gets Lease Plans

Plans were forwarded yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to lease the building and grounds on West Elder Street for use as a central county garage.

The facilities are in use by the C&P Telephone Company and they will vacate as of next February 1. A new service center and warehouse structure is being built off the Industrial Boulevard in the South End by the phone company.

At the session, Albert A. Doub, who with his brother, George Cochran Doub, Baltimore, own the building and grounds, discussed with the board the plans for drawing up a lease. The lease will be for a four-year period with a one-year option.

The area adjacent to the building now in use as a telephone pole yard, will be fenced in by the county as a parking area for equipment such as trucks and graders. Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said there is ample fencing at the Franklin Street garage property for use in this work.

The present central garage on Franklin Street will be torn down but various structures and items can be salvaged.

Opening lead: Trey of ◇

A complete inventory of defensive prospects provided East with the clew to the play that sunk declarer's ship in today's hand.

The first round of bidding requires very little comment. When North rebid one no trump South jumped to three hearts. This call designates a good six card suit and furthermore insists on an ultimate game contract. Remember, in our methods all jumps by responder are forcing to game. North's doubleton now became adequate trump support, and he carried on to four hearts.

West led the three of diamonds and East's jack held the first trick. This was the moment of decision for East and he paused to survey the situation. His early conclusion was that there was little point in continuing the diamonds. West's lead of the trey must be either a singleton or part of a three card holding, since it is the lowest card outstanding in the suit. On the basis of the bidding, East was convinced that South had the singleton, since he had shied away from no trump.

There was a brief temptation to shift to a spade which would establish some tricks for the defense if West held strength in that suit. The only objection to this play was that East had no card of reëntry once the ace of spades was dislodged. In fact, the only means of entry available for the defense would have to be in trumps. So considered, the proper play becomes clear-cut.

At trick two, East shifted to his singleton six of clubs, right into the dummy's strength. Declarer immediately led the ten of hearts and, in an effort to foil his opponents, he refused the finesse, going right up with the ace and returning the queen. His play was to no avail, for West was in with the king, and a club return enabled East to score his remaining trump with a ruff.

East returned the king of diamonds which was trumped by South, but subsequently declarer was obliged to concede a spade to East for the setting trick.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇

A seemingly harmless lead from strength by East provided the declarer with the slight opening he needed to bring home his game contract in today's hand.

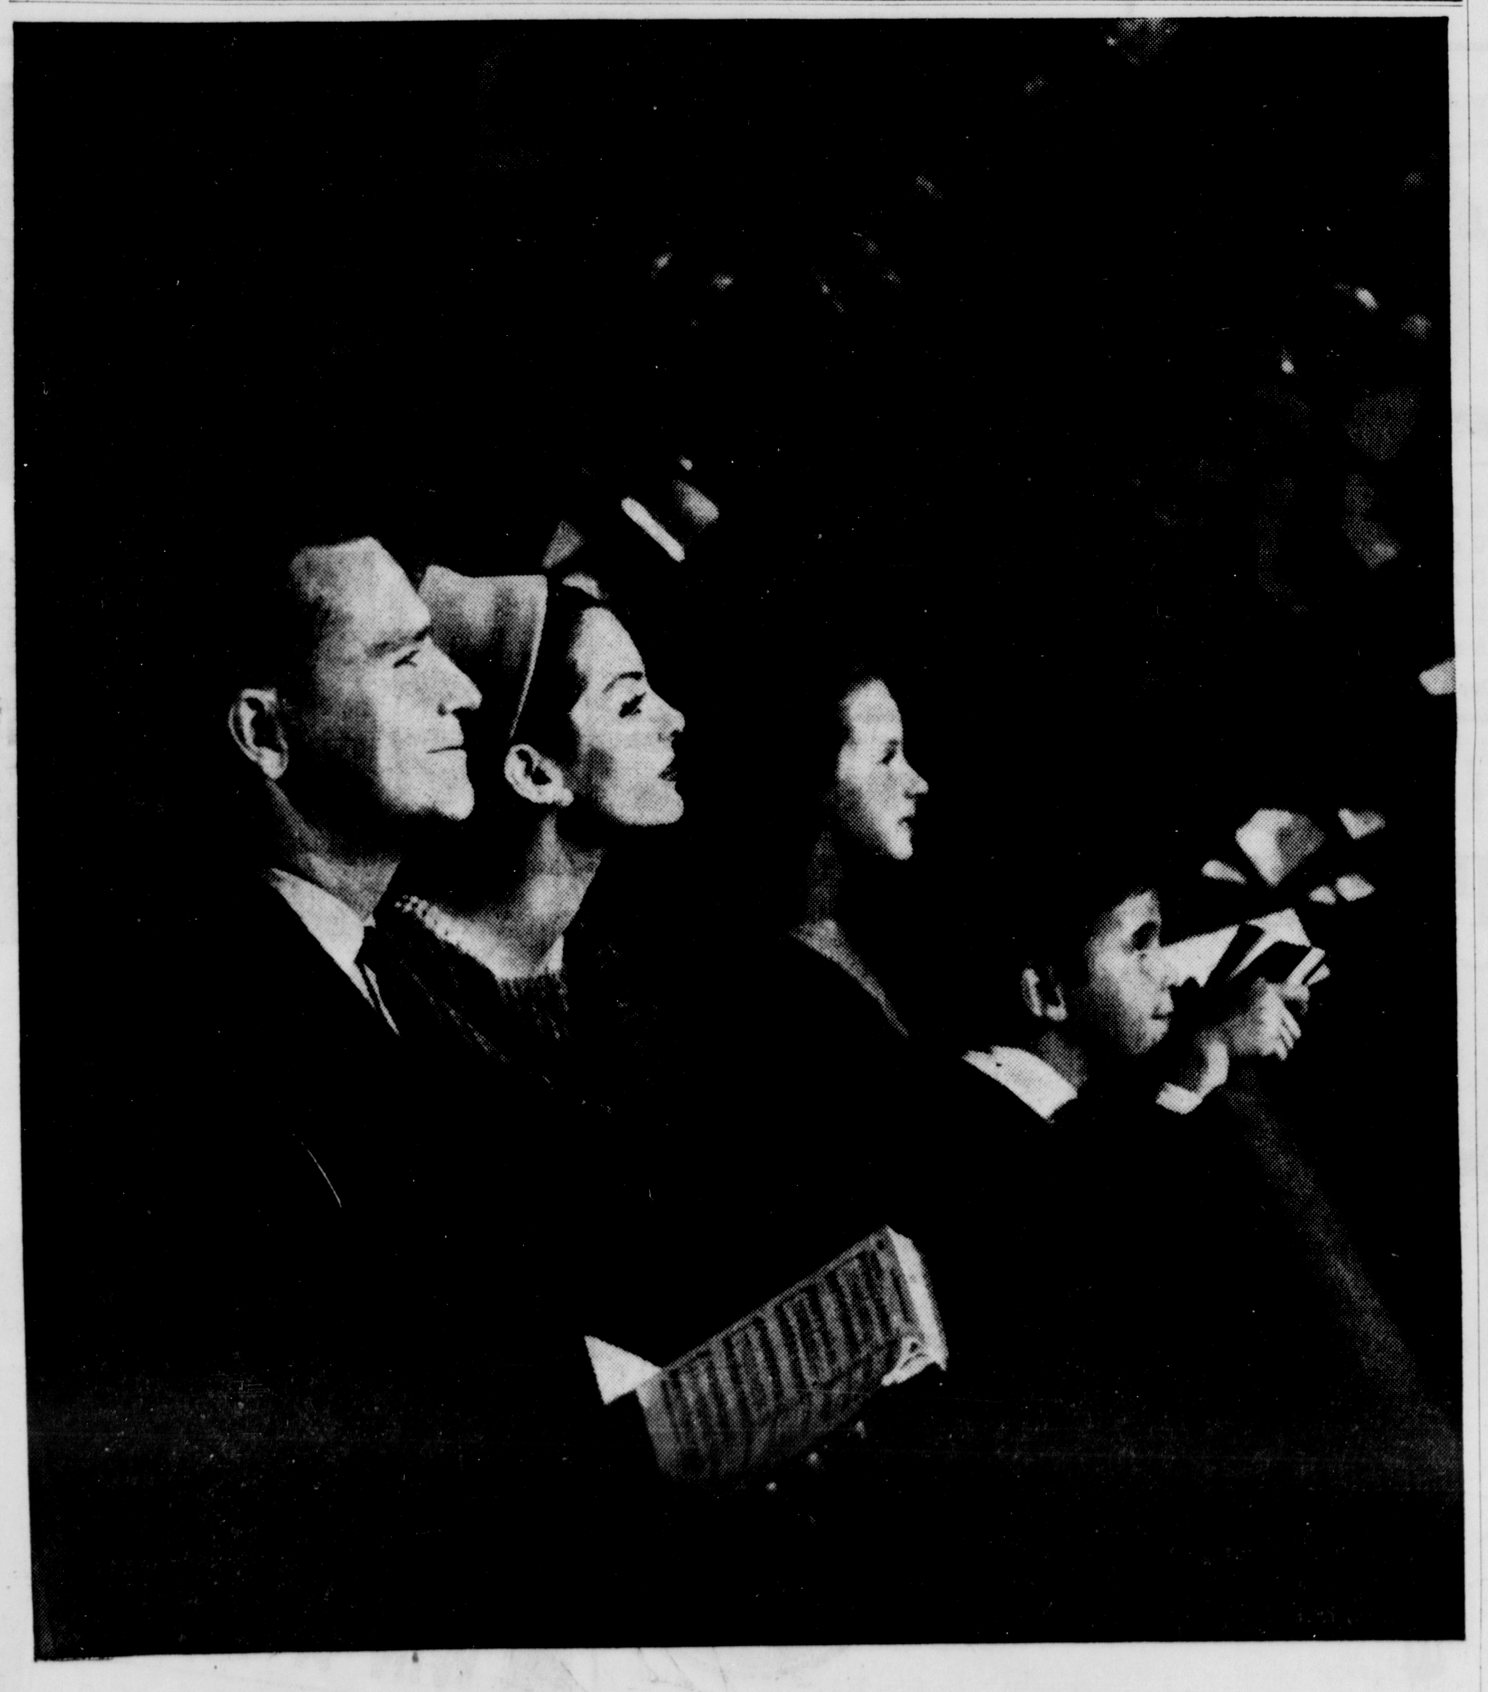

West opened the king of diamonds against South's four heart contract and East signaled with the queen. The play of the queen in these circumstances unconditionally demands that partner underlead his ace on the next round—it follows logically then that the queen should not be employed as a signal unless the player has either a singleton or else the jack of the suit as well.

West dutifully continued with a small diamond and East's jack held the second trick. The latter shifted to the king of spades and, when this held, he led another spade ruffed by declarer with the ace of hearts.

With three tricks already lost, South had to find some way to dispose of his club loser. The only source for discards was North's spade holding and East's bid of that suit indicated that it would require two more ruffs in order to establish the dummy's long cards. The only two obvious entries to North's hand were the jack of hearts and the king of clubs, and unless South could find a third entry he would be unable to run the spade suit.

Presently, he devised a plan that risked going down an extra trick if it failed, but that seemed like a modest price to pay with so much at stake. A small heart was led from the closed hand and when West played small dummy's eight was finessed, successfully. A spade was ruffed with the king of hearts and the North hand was reëntered with the jack of trumps to ruff out East's last spade. South was now able to get back to the dummy with the king of clubs to discard his losing club on the ten of spades.

East's play of a second round of spades when he had the lead gave South his chance, for it enabled declarer to obtain one spade ruff that he could not have negotiated on his own, for lack of entries. When East's king of spades holds the third trick, it is obvious that the only missing card in the suit — the ace—is with his partner, so that nothing is to be gained by leading another spade. If East exits, instead, with a heart, South will be unable to avoid losing a club trick subsequently.

S. T. Little Leather Gifts by Lord and Lady Buxton

Lady Buxton flips her lid

Such expuisite manners. Lady Buxton, of course, has made rather a reputation for herself with such goings-on. Who (for instance) gave the world that self-centering one-finger snap? That great big small-change purse? That high-sprung thin-lipped Key-Tainer? Who, indeed. The works work. And keep working. Smoothly, surely, and in such beautiful sets as . . .

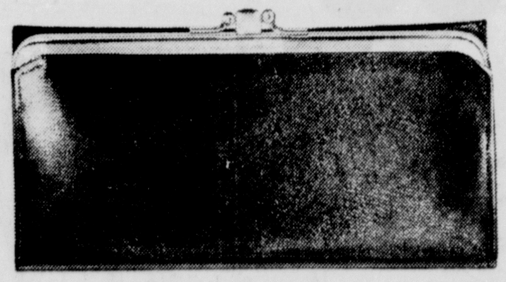

French Purse $5.00, Lighter 2.95, Cigarette Case 3.95, Clutch Purse, 5.95*, Billfold 5.00*, Key-Tainer 2.95*, Spec-Tainer 2.95. *Plus Tax.

Allegany County Board Pays Tribute To The Late President John F. Kennedy

At the conclusion of yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners a memorial service was held in respect to President John F. Kennedy.

The meeting room at the Court House was filled with county employes of every department and also a number of attorneys were there.

The eulogy, composed by Commissioner Robert Little Ebert and read by him was as follows:

"A small part of every one of us was buried Monday in Arlington National Cemetery. This feeling transcends all party lines, without regard to race, creed or the color of our skin. Often times, when personal tragedy strikes those who must carry on are born anew . . . with a great awareness of God's presence . . . giving them a deeper devotion to everything that touches their life.

"I hope and pray that all Americans will emerge from the stunned, shocked condition of the past few days with that new awareness, with that deeper devotion . . . a deeper devotion to God and to God's world.

"Let us honor the memory of John Fitzgerald Kennedy by the giving of ourselves to dedicated service toward making this a better world. In spite of the jet and atomic age, our individual efforts on a world-wide basis are limited . . . but the progress we can make in our own little world is tremendous. Right here in Allegany County, for example, if all of us caught the spirit of service so exemplified by our late President we could accomplish miracles. Let's start with a deeper devotion and concern for our children, our churches, our schools, our jobs and our government. Responsible, dedicated, concerned citizens are sorely needed.

"Let's eliminate from our vocabulary such words as lethargy, complacency, apathy. They have too long been a part of our lives. Allegany County, in every avenue of service, badly needs the vigorous, dedicated help of all its citizens to move forward.

"In closing, let me invoke the famous prayer of St. Francis of Assisi, which undoubtedly had a great effect on the life of him who so recently left us:

"O Lord, our Christ, may we have thy mind and thy spirit; make us instruments of thy peace; where there is hatred, let us sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is discord, union; where there is doubt, faith, where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

"O divine Master, grant that we may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life. Amen."

A Breadbasket

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California has only three per cent of the nation's farms but supplies 25 per cent of the nation's table food.

The state also leads the nation in the variety of its farm products, growing more than 200 crops for commercial use.

College Preview

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP) — Students from 80 high schools in New York City and on Long Island get a real taste of college life at Hofstra University's annual "college for a day" program.

The students attend classes taught by regular professors, choosing from among 37 sample courses. Last year's event was attended by 300 students, of whom more than 100 later applied for admission to Hofstra.

Luck Joins Family

MAGNOLIA, Ark. (AP) — The Corbin Yelvington family really hit the jackpot at the Columbia County Fair and Livestock show.

Fairgoers' ticket stubs were drawn every night, with $150 given away each evening. On Thursday Yelvington won the drawing and daughter Corbinette won the $50 prize. Then on Saturday night at the close of the fair Mrs. Yelvington's name was drawn for the $1,000 cash award.

Eastern Shore Seeks Industry, Cultural Improvement

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — Private efforts will be made to help the economy, education and culture of Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Plans to establish the Wye Institute, which will help governmental units promote the progress of the area, were announced by Arthur A. Houghton Jr., president of the Steuben Glass Co.

Houghton, owner of historic Wye Plantation on the Wye River near Queenstown, also is a director of the Corning Glass Co., U.S. Steel, the United States Trust Co. and other corporations.

Houghton named Clarence W. Miles, a prominent Baltimore lawyer, to head the institute.

"It will be the purpose of Wye Institute," said Houghton, "to make available technically trained and experienced persons to assist municipal, county and state authorities as well as private groups in promoting the progress of the Eastern Shore."

Papers of incorporation filed in Annapolis indicated that about $5 million had been invested to date. One of the first projects, it was understood, would be construction of an auditorium on a 750-acre estate, Cheston-on-Wye, purchased by Houghton for the institute.

The state also has announced plans for retraining projects on the Eastern Shore in an effort to help the area's residents adjust to the decline in economy that previously was based primarily on agriculture and fishing.

Houghton listed three main objectives:

1. "First it will do what it can to attract desirable business enterprises to locate on the Eastern Shore.

2. "It will work with young people regardless of race or religion to raise the standards of their environments, broaden their education and prepare them for the opportunities of later life.

3. "It will seek to bring to the people of the Eastern Shore cultural programs and events not presently available."

Tennessee is an Indian name meaning "river of the great bend."

Minister To Speak At Local Church

Rev. L. Russell Ice, dean and registrar of Southland Bible School, will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. at Grace Baptist Church, 211 Greene Street.

A musical program will be presented by the Staff Trion of the school. Rev. Ice is a native of Cumberland and his wife, the former Elizabeth Trapp is also a county native.

Rev. Ice is also scheduled to preach at Calvary Baptist Church in Cresaptown during the Thanksgiving Day service tomorrow.

Traffic Light In Operation At Valley St.

Another traffic light was placed in operation yesterday in the City Police Department's attempt to ease the flow of traffic within the city.

The newest light is located at the intersection of Valley and North Mechanic streets, it was announced by Police Commissioner William V. Keegan, who added that the "walk" phase of the light is not yet working.

The commissioner said that parts for the walk light, to be controlled by pedestrians by a pushbutton, have not yet arrived.

The light will operate 24 hours per day, Keegan said. He added that the light system is of modern technology and operates with a trip pad.

North Mechanic Street traffic is considered the "main flow" of traffic and Keegan stated that the only time the light will turn green for Valley Street traffic is when trip pads on Valley Street are activated.

Keegan said the need for the light was determined after a traffic study at that intersection had been made.

He said the intersection is the site of heavy traffic as it is used extensively by industrial workers, school children, traffic headed for the West Side, and for highway access in that section of the city.

The light was first placed into partial operation yesterday and was put into full operation yesterday.

Former Resident To Speak On Bible Institute Work

REV. L. R. ICE

Rev. L. Russell Ice, dean and registrar at Southland Bible Institute, Pikesville, Ky., a native of Cumberland, will speak at the Mt. Pleasant Methodist Church, RD 2, this city, Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Rev. Mr. Ice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ice, 715 Patterson Avenue, will speak and show slides on the work of the institute and also present a trio of staff workers in a musical program.

He will also be accompanied by his wife, the former Elizabeth (Betty) Trapp, also a native of Cumberland. She is director of Christian education and instructor in these subjects at the Bible Institute. She also teaches church and Bible history, and geography, comparative religion and child evangelism.

Rev. Mr. Ice was graduated from Allegany High School in 1940. For nine years he was employed by Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation; for one year with Monongahela Power Company, Fairmont, and for five years as office manager for various electrical contractors in West Virginia and Ohio.

Previous to entering Bible school, Mr. Ice was pastor of Stanleyville, Ohio, Community School for ten months. Mr. and Mrs. Ice entered Southland Bible Institute in September 1955 and were both graduated with highest honors in May 1958.

Upon graduation, he served as pastor of Grace Gospel Church, Marietta, Ohio, in June 1958 and served until August 15, 1961, when he resigned to accept a position as dean and registrar at the Bible Institute.

He also teaches Old and New Testament survey, Christian ethics, Romans, Revelation, Biblical introduction, archeology, apologetics, cults and typing.

With them are three staff members who have been singing together for three years, the Misses Phygenia Lee, Madeline Phillips and Calla Mae Tuley.

Rev. Paul O'Brien, pastor of Mt. Pleasant Church, said the program is for the public.

Lion Ousts Rider

WINDHOEK, South-West Africa (UPI) — Farmer Daantjie Harmse of the Grootfontein District in northern South-West Africa was out hunting on horseback recently with three friends.

Without warning, a lion sprang from the long grass and landed on the rump of his horse inches behind the saddle.

Harmse leaped for his life, and the horse bolted with the lion firmly astride its back.

It was still there when Harmse's brother, another member of the hunting party, killed it with a single shot.

Farm Leader

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California leads all other states in value of its farm products.

Farmers in the state produced a record $3.34 billion worth of goods in 1962, the Council of California Growers reports. That exceeds the value of all gold mined in the state since the Gold Rush of 1849.

"Skyway" Transit

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Bernard E. Calkins, head of the firm which operates buses in Houston, has proposed a "skyway rapid transit" system for the city.

Calkins suggested elevated streets be built above the city's freeways and allocated exclusively for specially designed express buses.

Sewage Plant Bids Due Tomorrow

Bids will be opened Friday at 8 p. m. by the Allegany County Sanitary Commission for a sewage disposal plant, and interceptor sewer line in the Bowling Green-Robert Place section.

The contract will include construction of 9,100 lineal feet of 18-inch and 15-inch interceptors complete with manholes, four pipe tunnels under the B & O Railroad tracks, and a primary treatment sewage disposal plant.

Also to be built will be a pneumatic ejector pumping station and force main. The work is expected to cost about $400,000.

The Hout Construction Company has already started work on installation of collecting sewers which will be tied in with the interceptor sewer.

The sewage plant will be located between the B & O tracks and the Potomac River in the Roberts Place area.

J. Ernest Wilson submitted a low bid in June for this contract and was awarded the job by the County Sanitary Commission on his bid of $444,444. However, Mr. Wilson was unable to obtain the necessary performance bond after the bid was accepted in September.

No Garbage Collection

Paul Boch yesterday announced that there will be no collection of garbage by the firm today because of the Thanksgiving holiday. The cancellation of service affects customers whose trash is picked up on Mondays and Thursdays, with Boch explaining that their next pickup will be on Monday, December 2.

Memorials Set At Football Games

Out of respect for President John F. Kennedy, who was assassinated last Friday afternoon in Dallas, the students and fans attending the Thanksgiving Day football games here between Allegany and Fort Hill and in Frostburg between Beall and LaSalle will take part in memorials.

Prior to the kickoff at the game here the fans will stand in a moment of silence and the band will play the Navy Hymn for President Kennedy, who was a hero in a PT boat in the South Pacific during World War II.

In Frostburg a eulogy written by Mrs. Paula Munson, wife of the band director of Beall High, will be read. Taps will be played by Keith Connor, a Beall sophomore, and the "Star Spangled Banner" will be sung.

The Holy Cross Toad (Notaden bennetti) lives in the semi-desert of Central Australia. When it rains, the toad stores water in its body; in drought, it burrows deep into the hardening mud. Aborigines sometimes get a life-saving drink of water by squeezing the toad.

In Good Shape

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Betty Cave, director of nurses at Children's Hospital, paused beside the bed of a 5-year-old boy who'd been through an emergency appendectomy.

"What kind of an operation did you have?" she asked. Shyly he pulled down the sheet to expose a big bandage over his incision. "A square one, I think," he answered.

Stock Market Recovers Balance, Drops Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market recovered its equilibrium Wednesday and closed with a comparatively tiny decline.

Volume fell to less than 60 per cent of Tuesday which was one of the busiest sessions in 30 years.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose a record 32.03 Tuesday. Wednesday it was off 2.52 at 741.00. At no time during the day did it fall more than 3.5.

The list of 15 most active issues afforded another good comparison. Tuesday 14 issues gained over 2 points. Wednesday only 2 were in that category.

Volume dropped to 5.22 million shares from 9.23 million Tuesday.

Plan Today For Early Yule Mailing

Several hours planning during this Thanksgiving holiday can be of immense value in saving time and trouble later on Christmas mailing, Acting Postmaster William B. Orndorff suggested yesterday.

Mr. Orndorff said he has received reports from the Post Office Department that a record Christmas mail volume of nearly 12 billion pieces is expected nationally during December. Another record mail volume also is predicted for the local post office.

We will be catching it both ways —going out and coming in, he said. I hope the residents of the entire Cumberland area, LaVale and Cresaptown will begin their Christmas shopping and mailing tomorrow if they have not already done so.

The postmaster offered a few tips for the holiday planning including check of last year's mailing list or preparing one; checking for changes in addresses; use of ZIP code numbers to speed mail; making estimate of material needed for gift wrapping and packaging and purchasing it while in good supply and preparing a specific gift list to making shopping easier.

A few hours spent on Thanksgiving Day in planning Christmas mailings will provide plenty to be thankful for later on, Mr. Orndorff said. And the Cumberland Post Office and its 129 employes will be very thankful too, he added.

Emmanuel Plans Service Today

Emmanuel Episcopal Church will celebrate Thanksgiving with a service of Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m. today.

Rev. Forrest L. Farris, assistant to the rector, will preach the sermon. "We Plough The Fields" will be sung by the combined junior and senior choirs as the offertory anthem. Guest organist for the service will be Robert H. Mann Jr.

Optimists Plan Dinner, Bowling

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday the meeting of the Optimist Club of Cumberland this week was canceled.

Next week the club will meet again at the White Oaks Bowling Lane for a buffet dinner followed by bowling. The ladies are invited to attend the dinner which will begin at 6:30 p. m.

Auto Fire Checked

East Side firemen yesterday were called to 218 Davidson Street to extinguish an auto fire. The call was received at 4:45 p. m.

KC Meeting Friday Night

Chief Jusice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will meet tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the home of Cumberland Council 586, K. of C.

John J. Coyle, faithful navigator, said that final arrangements will be made for the appearance here next month of the Boys Town Choir.

Reports on the advance sale of tickets will be given at the meeting, according to Mr. Coyle, who said the choir will present a matinee program at 3:30 p.m. on December 3 at Fort Hill High School and an evening performance beginning at 8:15 o'clock.

Proceeds of the two performances will be turned over to the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. John H. Mosner is general chairman of the choir's visit to Cumberland.

VFW Remembers Handicapped School

A Thanksgiving turkey dinner was served to the students at the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children School, Virginia Avenue, Tuesday, according to Mrs. Guy C. Smith, instructor at the school.

The turkey, cooked with all the trimmings was provided by Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. Smith sent the thanks of the children and the school to the post membership for their Thanksgiving gift.

Local Student Named Secretary

Elected president was Alan B. Pascoe of Watertown, Mass. Officers of the class will serve the rest of the school year.

Yule Decorations Will Be Lighted By Santa Friday

Christmas decorations placed on downtown streets will be lighted at a civic ceremony planned Friday at 7 p. m. at the intersection of Baltimore and South Centre streets.

Santa Claus will turn on the lights in the presence of the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and officials of the Downtown Cumberland Business Association.

The decorations will remain lighted until after January 1.

The association spent $1,300 this year for additions to the display which has been used in recent years. The new decorations include Santa Claus streamers and lighted tinsel streamers.

County Library To Close Today

The Allegany County Library will be closed only today in observance of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Rollin P. Marquis, librarian, said the library will observe regular hours on Friday and Saturday.

Harpers Ferry Has Critical Water Problem

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —Water shortages in the Harpers Ferry-Bolivar area of Jefferson County have prompted Gov. W. W. Barron to declare a state of emergency there.

A proclamation by the governor sought federal assistance for the area and asked President Johnson to concur in the finding that drought conditions amount to an emergency.

The Harpers Ferry area was one of the hardest hit in the state as a result of the late-summer drought and the State Health Department earlier ruled public water supplies unsafe.

When wells serving the town ran dry surface water from the Elk Run was used. But filtering equipment was not available and health officials said chlorination alone was not sufficient to make the water safe.

Barron said he believed the situation warrants federal aid.

Construction Under Way On Parish House

KEYSER — Construction of the new parish house for Emmanuel Episcopal Church has reached the half-way point, and work is proceeding according to schedule.

The new building, located on Davis Street immediately behind the present church, will be used for classrooms, meetings and recreation, and will also be available for public functions. The lower floor will include a kitchen, rest rooms and a large open area for meetings. The upper floor will be used almost entirely for classrooms. Together, both floors will provide a floor space of over 2,000 square feet.

The parish house will be connected to the existing church by a closed-in passageway which will also serve as an entrance to the new building.

Contractor for the project is Curtis W. Matlick, with materials provided by Cumberland Swift Homes, Inc. The estimated cost of the building is $22,000, and the target date for completion is January 1.

The oldest known reference to the legendary character Robin Hood was about 1377.

Homemakers Clubs Schedule Yule Programs

OAKLAND—The several Homemakers clubs of Garrett County, during the month of December, will have various Christmas parties and programs.

On December 3 the Deer Park club will meet at 6 p. m. in the Town Hall for their annual Christmas observance.

The Casselman Valley Homemakers will meet at 6:30 p. m. the same day, at the home of Mrs. Neil Yommer to observe the Yuletide.

The New Germany Club will meet at 1:30 p. m. December 4 at the home of Mrs. Sam Otto. The Grantsville club will meet at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Raymond Rosenberger with Mrs. Harold Miller as co-hostess for the Christmas program.

W.Va. Employes Seek Pay Boost

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes says it will seek a pay raise for its members from the 1964 Legislature and State Board of Public Works.

In its official publication, "Mountain State Public Employes," the union said its state representative, James T. Nelson, has already reviewed budget requests prepared by various state agencies.

The publication said the budget requests contain "healthy hikes" and that Nelson will ask the board to put them in the budget document before submitting it to the lawmakers.

The union, which represents many state employes, said besides the pay hike it is seeking two paydays a month instead of one for its employes at state mental institutions.

Garrett County Churches List Services Today

Oakland Arranges United Program

OAKLAND—Five congregations of the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park area will unite in a Thanksgiving service today at 10 a.m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church here. A sermon will be delivered by Rev. O. W. Hull, pastor of Loch Lynn Heights Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Participating churches, besides St. Paul's and Loch Lynn EUB, are Mt. Lake Park Baptist Church, Bethel Methodist Church in Mt. Lake Park and Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

An offering will be used for community service projects through the Mt. Top Ministerial Association.

Several churches prefer their own services.

The Red House community Thanksgiving service will be held in St. John's Lutheran Church there tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. Clyde Hylton, pastor of the Eglon Church of the Brethren will preach. The choir of St. John's Church will provide music.

St. Mark's Lutheran Church will hold its Thanksgiving service today at 10 a. m. There will be music by the Children's Choir, Youth Choir and Adult Choir. Rev. William Ernest Fox, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

Thanksgiving Day will be observed at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church with a service of Holy Communion at 10:30 a. m. The rector, Rev. W. Shelby Walthall, will preach the sermon. Music will be under the direction of Mrs. Neil C. Fraley.

Persons planning to attend the service are being asked to bring canned goods and men's used clothing for distribution to the Valley House in Baltimore, a rehabilitation center for men.

It is estimated that it took fish some 250 million years to develop into their present form and learn to swim.

W. Va. Governor Issues Message Of Thanksgiving

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — In a Thanksgiving message to West Virginians, Gov. W. W. Barron said despite the profound sorrow of the death of President John F. Kennedy, "we must find much for which to express our gratitude.

"We can take a large measure of renewed hope from the very passing of the outstanding humanitarian we now mourn," Barron said, "for in our loss of him the shining principles which he advocated and followed are brought more sharply into focus before us."

Barron said Kennedy "was the chosen leader of the richest country on earth, yet he labored too for people of every race and color in faraway, underdeveloped regions beyond the seas.

"So as we pause for Thanksgiving 1963, let us keep clear the things for which John F. Kennedy stood. Let us remind ourselves of the wonderful heritage that is ours.

"Let us show grateful hearts for gifts bountifully bestowed, in a nation where we can carry on in truth, in freedom and in unity despite the shocking events of the past few days," he added.

Dorcas Class Plans Yule Party

ELLERSLIE — Dorcas Class of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Ellis Wisler. Mrs. Erma Burkett read the scripture, the prayer and the thought of the day from the Upper Room. Mrs. Kathleen Clapper read a poem, "Thanksgiving Prayer." Ten members were present.

Plans were made to give flowers to the shut-ins of the community and Mrs. Hazel Griffey was appointed chairman. The Christmas party will be held December 17 in the church hall and each one will bring a dollar jingle.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess and Mrs. Grace Waltman.

False Arrest Suit To Be Reviewed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The State Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to review a Cabell County Circuit Court decision against J. T. Campbell, Huntington, in a Sunday closing law false arrest suit.

Campbell, manager of the J. C. Penney store in Huntington, appealed a lower court order directing him to pay $2,000 to an employe of Heck's Discount store who was arrested during a Sunday closing law raid Dec. 10, 1961.

The raid was made on the basis of "John Doe" and "Mary Doe" warrants Campbell swore out before a justice of the peace. Sherman Lee Winters sought damages for false arrest.

Campbell contends he did not arrest the employe, was not responsible for the arrest and that, in any event, the arrest was proper.

He also contends the verdict was excessive and the result of prejudice.

Ellerslie PTA Plans Candy Sale

ELLERSLIE—A Parent Teacher Association meeting was held Thursday evening. Group repeated the flag salute and sang "America" and John Sides read the PTA prayer. Mrs. Mildred Russell presided.

Plans were made to send a telegram supporting a plan of putting prayers back in the schools. Room one, Mrs. Russell's, won the award for having the most parents present.

A candy sale will be held by the PTA. Fifty-four members belong.

The principal announced the Thanksgiving holiday will start, Wednesday, at 1 p. m. Following the meeting, Bruce May, physical education instructor, gave a talk on "Physical Fitness." Refreshments were served by the mothers of grades one and two.

The light of a candle 40 thousand miles away could be picked up by the Palomar telescope near San Diego, Calfi.

Corcoran Sees No Change In GOP Position

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)— Republican State Chairman Howard V. Corcoran said Tuesday he doesn't believe the death of President Kennedy will affect the political outlook of any GOP candidates "at the moment."

But he said it will take a study "in the next 30 days to assess the possibilities of any change in the political atmosphere." He said he thought the "great changeover will be on the Democratic side."

He said Democrats face the possibility of a "contest in their own (national) convention" as a result of Kennedy's death.

The developments of the past few days, Corcoran said, "have placed a heavy responsibility on the shoulders of Republican leaders."

The GOP, he said, "must pledge our support to President Johnson and restrain the practices of politics that could only do injury to the governmental processes during the painful period of readjustment under the changeover in the presidency."

Because its legs are so long, a giraffe cannot bend down to drink. It must spread its front legs apart until it can reach water.

FROSTBURG NATIONAL BANK
MEMBER F.R.S. F.D.I.C.

Barron Names Collison To W.Va. Commerce Dept

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. W. W. Barron Tuesday named Koder M. Collison as acting commissioner of the State Department of Commerce, effective Dec. 15.

Barron also announced appointment of Fielding H. Lewis as successor to director J. D. Little Jr. of the department's Industrial Development Division. Little left recently to take another job.

Collison will succeed Commissioner Hulett C. Smith, Beckley, who submitted his resignation to seek the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

Collison came to the department last March 1 from Ohio where, in 1959, he was named director of the Department of Industrial and Economic Development.

Collison got his start as industrial representative and office manager for the System Industrial Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad. In 1953, he became director of the Springfield, Ohio, Development Council and in 1957 moved up as manager of the industrial and business expansion branch of the Dayton (Ohio) Area Chamber of Commerce.

Lewis, formerly of Sewickley, Pa., has been involved in locating industrial plants in West Virginia for the past 24 years, Barron said. Lewis was instrumental in bringing to the Ohio River Valley area a number of chemical plants as well as Kaiser Aluminum at Ravenswood.

Lewis became assistant industrial engineer in the commercial development department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in 1939 and was appointed assistant industrial agent for the B&O in 1940. In 1941, he moved from Baltimore to Pittsburgh, becoming industrial agent.

Lewis was promoted to regional manager of the industrial development department in January, 1962. His territory included a large part of West Virginia. In September, 1962, Lewis resigned his post with the railroad to become an industrial development consultant.

W.Va. Stream Pollution Laws Being Prepared

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Coal and manufacturing officials indicated at a hearing Tuesday there should be further consideration of two proposed bills aimed at revising and tightening West Virginia's stream pollution laws.

The measures were drawn up by a 10-member study group, headed by Sen. Carl Gainer, D-Nicholas, and Del. J. Paul England, D-Wyoming, directed by the 1963 Legislature to make recommendations to the 1964 session.

A spokesman said Tuesday it was not yet certain whether the matter would be included in Gov. W. W. Barron's call to the lawmakers.

One of the basic points in the proposals is a "clean stream" section designed to prevent pollution of any stream now considered a "truly clean stream."

In such cases, permits could not be granted for discharging waste matter, treated or untreated, into a stream.

The West Virginia Manufacturers Association and West Virginia Coal Association Tuesday asked the committee for additional time to prepare specific proposals and to confer with members.

This will be done before another hearing to be held here Dec. 11, the committee said.

The committee later will review all of the reaction before making final drafts of the bills.

As they now stand, the bills also would:

—Extend pollution regulations to include the building of dams.

— Provide control of operations by water and well drillers.

— Give the chief of the state water resources division authority to act directly in preventing stream pollution rather than through the present hearing procedures of the state water resources board.

— Set out, in a companion bill, standardized administrative procedures for all state agencies in conducting hearings of all types.

Hardy County Deer Checking Stations Listed

Up To 10,000 Hunters Expected

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Conservation officer Bart Townsend lists 14 checking stations for Hardy County for the deer season which opens Monday.

Stations listed are See's Esso Station, Wardensville; Ely's Store, Baker; South End Garage, Moorefield; Old Fields Grocery, Old Fields; R. E. Saville, Trough; Larry's Grille, Lost River; Stanley See's Service Station, Mathias; Thomas Store, Milam; Bass Store, Bass; Elam Combs residence, Kimsey's Run; Lester Tusing's residence, Branch Mountain; Criders Store, Branch Mountain (Fabius); Bowman's Store, Needmore and B. F. Dietz residence at Perry.

Hardy County is braced for an influx of seven to ten thousand hunters during the week. Bucks only are legal this year in the county and the bucks must have at least three inch spikes.

All kills must have field tags affixed immediately after the kill. The field tags are supplied with the licenses when purchased but may be improvised if they show the name and address of the hunter, license number, date and time of the kill and the county. These tags must remain on the deer until checked in at the checking station or a conservation officer.

More Units Join Keyser Yule Parade

KEYSER — Five additional units have entered the annual Christmas parade which is set for 7 p. m. Friday.

Joseph Corbin, parade chairman, said the following are additional entrants: Clover Leaf 4-H Club, Keyser Sparky Fire Department; Potomac Valley Chapter of DeMolay, Romney High School band, and Keyser-Mineral County Library. He said, too, there is a possibility the New Creek Riding Club will participate.

The parade is being sponsored by the Jaycees and Retail Merchants Association, and serves to kick-off the Christmas shopping season here.

Prizes of $50, $25 and $15 will be awarded float winners.

Junior 4-H Girls Plan Skating Party

LONACONING—The Lonaconing Junior 4-H Club met a recent evening in the VFW home with 30 members present. The meeting opened with the 4-H pledge and Lords Prayer. Roll call was answered by each girl telling "What she has done to help build the club."

Jeanette Stafford demonstrated "How to Clean Tile Floors." Janice Ferrens gave a demonstration on "Decorating Christmas Candles." Karen Nicol and Dottie Jeffries gave their demonstration on "Uncooked Candy." Plans were made for a skating party during the Thanksgiving holidays.

The next meeting will be held at 7 p. m., December 3 at the VFW home, when the Christmas party will be discussed. Jean Lynn Moses and Vicki Burt will give a demonstration.

The meeting closed with the reading of the 4-H Creed by Marlene Kiddy.

Work Progresses On C&P Project At Friendsville

FRIENDSVILLE—Work is progressing on the installation of new equipment in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's building here.

The new equipment is being housed in a new addition to the present building. Over 60 new lines will be added when the project is completed.

MHS Presents Assembly For Thanksgiving

Juniors Sponsor Benefit Dance

MT. SAVAGE — Under the direction of Mrs. Melvin Brown, the 11-A and 11-A1 sections of Mt. Savage High School presented a Thanksgiving assembly Wednesday.

The first part was a pageant entitled "The Hope of the World." Kay McCray portrayed the part of the Statue of Liberty and Dennis Blank the part of Uncle Sam. The 11-A section recited a part of the Declaration of Independence and talked about the youth of America. The second part of the play, called "If Only I Could Cook," featured a cast consisting of Marsha Aldridge, William Bowen, Sandy Sweitzer, Ogdalene Suder, Barry Phillips and Vincent Yantorno.

The athletic Boosters' Club held a dinner on November 20.

With the assistance of Leon Conners, president, Mrs. George Shaffer, chairman of the supper, and Mrs. Mabel Wilson, who made the arrangements at the school, approximately 425 meals were served.

Tucker-Preston Phone Rates Go Up Dec. 1

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Telephone rates for 2,000 Duncan Telephone Co. customers in Preston and Tucker Counties will be higher beginning Dec. 1.

The Public Service Commission authorized the higher rates Monday which will bring the company about $16,000 annually.

The company, headquartered at Davis, Tucker County, asked for the higher rates to combine exchanges to permit local or free calls between residents of Aurora and Eglan, Preston County, and Davis, Thomas and Parsons in Tucker County.

The new residential rates include $6.50 monthly for a private line, $5.50 for a two-party line, $4.50 for a four - party and $1.25 for extensions. Business rates are $9 monthly for a private line and $8 for a two-party line.

Jaycees Sponsor Keyser Christmas Lighting Contest

KEYSER—The Keyser Jaycees announced plans Tuesday to sponsor for the third straight year a home Christmas decorating contest.

A spokesman said the contest will be open to all residents within the city limits with the exception of those who won last year. Three cash prizes will be awarded.

The contest is promoted to spread the spirit of Christmas by means of decorating with light, the spokesman said. He urged as many residents as possible to participate. "In addition to helping make Keyser attractive," he said, "you may win one of three prizes."

Entry blanks and contest rules will be available at a later date.

Club To Meet

HYNDMAN — The Hyndman-Londonderry Democrat Club will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the Community Center to nominate officers, according to Myrtle J. Holler, secretary.

Historic Music Features Potomac Valley DAR Meet

KEYSER—A program, "America Sings While History is Made," was presented at a meeting of Potomac Valley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the assembly room of the Science Hall at Potomac State College. Hostesses were Mrs. Dana Lough, Mrs. John Hesen and Mrs. Irene Fischbach.

The musicale was presented by 23 girls from the Seventh Grade at Keyser High School with Mrs. E. E. Church directing. Miss Janet Newcomb, a senior, was narrator.

The song, "Yankee Doodle," came out of the Revolutionary War along with "Hail Columbia" which was considered the national anthem until the Star Spangled Banner was written and made the official anthem. It was written during the War of 1812.

"America" came out of the Mexican War (1831-1832) and out of the Civil War (1861-65) came such songs as "Battle Hymn of the Republic" to the tune of "John Brown's Body," "Tenting Tonight" and "Dixie."

Among the songs emerging from the Spanish American War (1898) were "Stars and Stripes Forever," a march written by John Philip Sousa in 1897 and "Hot Time in the Ol' Town Tonight," adopted as their marching song.

"America the Beautiful," a hymn, was reviewed during World War I (1914-1918). More songs of that period included "Smiles," "Pack Up Your Troubles," "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "Over There."

From World War II emerged such selections as "God Bless America," "This is My Country," and from the Korean conflict "Dear Hearts and Gentle People" and "Thank You America" which was the concluding number.

Guests included Mrs. A. G. Springer, Mrs. Tetley, Mrs. Westerberg, Miss Caroline Ross, Miss Myra Nefflen, Miss Alma Peters and Miss Flora Swecker.

Mrs. E. A. See, regent, presided. Mrs. James Harman read a letter from the president general and Mrs. Ervin Bane read an article on national defense. Mrs. See welcomed Miss Diane Ervin as a new member. Mrs. James Golden reported she had written to Hulett C. Smith, commissioner of commerce, about a state flag and he had sent one to her which will be used at Fort Ashby which the DAR maintains. A donation was given to the Jaycees Christmas decorations.

Fort Hill And Beall Conceded Edge In Holiday Grid Battles

Campers Play Sentinels For Double Crown

7,000 May Attend 28th Holiday Tilt Here At 1:30 P.M.

Undefeated and untied Fort Hill has been installed the favorite over Allegany High School's Campers in their 28th city championship football game today at 1:30 p.m., at the local stadium.

Coach Charles E. Lattimer's gridders have bowled over nine opponents, seven via the shutout route, and have limited the opposition to three touchdowns and 21 points. The Sentinels also have rolled up 314 points, an average of 35 tallies per game.

Two Titles At Stake

A victory would give either team the city championship as both schools have disposed of LaSalle in the annual triangular race. Fort Hill leads the Cumberland Valley Athletic League race with a 4-0 mark and Allegany occupies the runner-up spot with 3-1. The Sentinels could take it all by winning while an Allegany triumph would mean that Cumberland teams will share the league crown at 4-1 each. Since the CVAL was revived in 1956, Fort Hill has finished on top thrice and Allegany twice. In the old circuit that functioned from 1928 through 1943, the Campers either won or tied for the championship six times while Fort Hill led the pack twice.

City and individual scoring championships also are at stake in today's tilt. Danny Darr of Allegany paces the city scorers with 76 points with Rich Robinson of Fort Hill breathing down his back with a total of 72. Robinson leads the CVAL race with 42 points but right on his heels is Darr with 34. Jim Mertens, Fort Hill's place-kicking expert, has 34 conversions to his credit, five points off the city record held jointly by Don Decker and Doug Metz, two former Fort Hill kickers.

Comparative Scores

Allegany's only loss in the CVAL came at the hands of Martinsburg, 14-7. One week later, Fort Hill clobbered the Bulldogs, 42-7. Allegany struggled to eke out a 14-10 decision over North Hagerstown and Fort Hill followed up by belting the same school, 34-0. The Campers downed South Hagerstown's Rebels, 22-13, and several weeks later the Sentinels routed the Hub City eleven, 34-0. Lattimer's Larrupers whipped Frederick by five touchdowns, 33-0, and Allegany was only two tds better than the Cadets, 28-13. Comparative scores give Fort Hill a decided edge in this one and an Allegany victory indeed would be a shocking surprise to the chalk players. Overall, Fort Hill holds a 13-11 edge in Turkey Day game victories. Three games ended in ties.

The Campers' second loss of the season came in the Annapolis game here and the score was 21-19.

Schwarz Holds Edge

Messrs. Lattimer and Ed Schwarz, both products of the University of Maryland, will be trying to outsmart each other for the fifth straight year. Schwarz holds a 2-1 edge in victories while last year's game ended in a 14-14 draw.

Rich Robinson and Thomas Hamilton are Fort Hill's co-captains while Carl Belt and Pat Chorpenning will lead the Campers.

Handling the game will be officials of the Ohio Valley Chapter of the West Virginia Football Officials' Association, namely Roy Dodez, Frank Grubbs, Don Donnell and Ray Norman.

The bands of both schools will be on hand to help make it a gala occasion and they'll participate in the special exercises at halftime.

7,000 Are Expected

All reserved seat ducats have been sold and the attendance is expected to hit around the 7,000 mark. Last year the paid was 6,879, the gate receipts $8,112 and each school received $3,210. The record year was 1948 when 9,792 paid $10,745 but each school's share was only $3,216 after payment of federal taxes and other expenses. The richest year for the schools was 1960 when they each received $3,997.90 out of a gate of $10,166.50 and 8,656 payees.

SEEKS 10-0 MARK—Charles E. Lattimer, a product of Fort Hill and center at the University of Maryland during the Jim Tatum regime, will be going for his first unbeaten season at Fort Hill when his team seeks its 10th victory today. Charley has a winning average of 86 per cent (40-6-2) since he succeeded his former boss, Bill Hahn, as the Sentinels' coach in 1959.

Virginia Teams Battle For SC Crown Today

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — The cream of the 1963 versions of Southern Conference football clubs clash here Thanksgiving Day to determine the league championship.

Virginia Tech, seeking its first victory in three years over Virginia Military Institute and its first Southern Conference football championship ever, boasts of four of the all-Conference team members. They are headed by quarterback Bob Schweickert who took a beating at the hands of VMI as a sophomore quarterback a year ago.

The Keydets, winners of the Southern Conference championship four times in the last six years, own the crown because they defeated Tech here 14-9 last year in an upset.

The game is scheduled at 1:30 p.m. and weather forecasters said there was a chance of showers. But the temperatures should be pleasant and winds moderate.

Schweickert, who will lead the Techmen, is the current leading ground gainer of conference backs this season and within reach of two conference records, total offense and rushing offense.

The Keydets will be under the direction of quarterback Butch Nunnally, whose recent efforts have brought his team into a third place standing in passing offense among conference teams.

Freese Returns To Bucs In Deal With Cincinnati

Pittsburgh Buys Infielder For Undisclosed Sum

By RUDY CERNKOVIC
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gene Freese completed a cycle Wednesday by returning to the Pittsburgh Pirates, a team that gave him his major league start.

The purchase of Freese from the Cincinnati Reds for an undisclosed sum and a minor league player raised the question of the future of Pirate third baseman Bob Bailey, who is said to have received the largest bonus in baseball history. Freese has played third base throughout most of his career with five clubs after making his major league debut with Pittsburgh in 1955.

Pirate Manager Joe L. Brown made it clear at a news conference that it has not been decided where Freese will play.

"That will be up to the manager (Danny Mutaugh)", he said.

"But we don't want anyone to think we are giving up on Bailey. Gene is an experienced major leaguer and he is a candidate for more than one position. He has speed, and don't forget, he has hit more than 100 home runs."

Brown declined to specify the price paid for Freese or reveal the identity of the minor leaguer who will go to the Reds to complete the deal.

"It was the highest price ever paid for player in the eight years I have been with the Pirates," Brown commented.

Brown said he first became interested in re-acquiring Freese when the infielder was placed on waivers last August.

"Of course, that's routine," Brown said. "But when I inquired further, the Reds withdrew him. I pursued the subject with (Bill) DeWitt at Los Angeles during the World Series last fall. Bill assured me Freese was in top physical condition."

Freese, who will be 30 on Jan. 8, sat out 117 games with the Reds in 1962 because of an ankle fracture suffered in spring training. Last season he batted .244 in 65 games, hitting six homers and driving in 26 runs.

A native of Wheeling, W. Va., Freese was an important factor in the Reds' pennant drive in 1961 when he hit 26 home runs and drove in 87 runs while batting .277.

Ironmen In Final Pre-Playoff Clash

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)— The Wheeling Ironmen meet Indianapolis here Thursday in thei final regular season encounter before clashing with Toledo at Toledo Dec. 8 for the United Football League championship.

But Indianapolis will be out to avenge a 42-17 trouncing at the hands of the defending UFL champions earlier this year.a

Quarterback Ivan Toncic and Tom Kennedy, who have worked together to set a new UFL passing record, will share the signal-calling duties.

LaSalle Goes To Frostburg For 1963 Final

Schools Clash 18th Time; Mountaineers Won 6 Of Last Seven

The stage is all set for the eighteenth annual Thanksgiving Day football game at Frostburg between the Explorers of LaSalle High School and Beall High School's Mountaineers at 1:30 p. m.

There are no titles at stake in this one and LaSalle will be trying to windup a nightmarish season that shows only two victories in nine outings, both at the expense of West Virginia schools.

Beall, on the other hand, is just above the .500 mark (5-4) but has been installed as a slight favorite over the warriors of Coach Paul Thompson, one-time Beall High and George Washington University star.

Ends P.V.C. Season

This game winds up the season in the Potomac Valley Conference in which the Mountaineers of Coach Jerry Calhoun have won three and lost one while the Explorers scored one victory and lost thrice. The Frostburg eleven holds second place in the P.V.C. and will finish there by winning or playing a tie. A Beall defeat would move Southern of Oakland (4-2) into the runner-up spot. Romney won all the marbles in the loop this season with a 7-0 record.

Three of the teams met by LaSalle played Beall. The Explorers bowed to Fort Hill 47-0 but Beall held the Sentinels to a 20-0 score. The Explorers lost to Allegany, 33-6, so did Beall to the tune of 25-0. Both schools whipped Keyser, with LaSalle turning the trick, 18-6, while Beall topped the Golden Tornado, 12-7.

LaSalle's second victory was at the expense of St. Francis Trojans of Morgantown who won only one game this season.

Won 6 Of Last 7

This game usually attracts about 1,500 spectators to the Mountain City where it has been a holiday fixture since 1946. LaSalle holds a 9-7 lead in victories with one tie game but Beall has bagged six of the last seven contests.

Beall seniors eligible for the final game are Gary Baker, Bob Baker, Dennis Bartlett, Floyd Catherman, Mike Davis, Ronald Frazier, Ralph Folk, Larry Frost, Bill Petenbrink, John Hargosh, Jim Shaw, Ralph Spriggs, Ernest Drewand, Gary Watson. LaSalle has three seniors but Ray Green and Terry Carolan are the only ones expected to see action.

Officials from Pennsylvania are handling this one. They are Byron C. Gordon, Eugene Whitfield, David Bock and James Pinelli.

CAMPERS' BOSS — Allegany High School will be playing its 60th game since Ed Schwarz took over the reins from Chet Payne in 1958 when it plays Fort Hill today. Schwarz's record against Fort Hill is 2-2-1. Over six campaigns his teams have won 40, lost 16 and played three ties. His 1960 team was 10-0. Last year Allegany tied Fort Hill, 14-14.

NAIA Soccer Tourney Begins At Frostburg State Tomorrow

East Stroudsburg's Title Challenged By Three Colleges

Four teams including the defending champion will battle for the national small college soccer championship this weekend at Frostburg State College.

Frostburg is playing host for the first time in the school's history to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) soccer tournament.

East Stroudsburg (Pa.) State College will defend the championship it won last year against Trenton (N. J.) State College, Castleton (Vt.) College and Earlham College of Richmond, Ind.

Semi-final contests will be played tomorrow, with Earlham opposing Trenton State at 10 a. m., and East Stroudsburg clashing with Castleton at 2 p. m. The championship battle is set for 2 p. m. Saturday, and will be preceded by a consolation match at 10 a. m. An awards presentation dinner, beginning at 6:30 p. m. at Gunter Hall, will climax the two-day national tourney.

Earlham College brings the best record to Frostburg, having lost once and played to one tie while winning eight of ten games. The Quakers' only defeat came at the hands of Michigan State University, 3-1. MSU beat out Earlham for the championship of the eastern division of the Midwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

The records of the other three teams are similar. Castleton has a 9-4-1 mark, Trenton is 9-3-1 and East Stroudsburg compiled a 7-3-2 log. Trenton State, which romped to the championship of the New Jersey State College Conference championship, boasts a 3-2 victory over Duke University.

Coaches of the title-seeking teams include John Eiler, East Stroudsburg; Mel Schmid, Trenton State and Richard Terry, Castleton.

Michigan State And Illinois Battle For Big Ten, Rose Bowl Prizes

Spartans Made Six-Point Choice At East Lansing

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

Illinois and Michigan State, the gourmets of the Big Ten, will be fighting for more than the drumstick when they tangle in a pre-dinner get-together in East Lansing on Thanksgiving Day.

For the winner, in addition to a very satisfying post-game meal, there is also an all-expenses paid round trip to Pasadena, Calif., and the Rose Bowl game. For the loser, it's pass the bicarb!

The third-ranked Spartans are rated 6-point favorites over the Illini, due in no small part to the presence of the smallest man in the conference in the Michigan State lineup. Sherm Lewis, who stands only 5-8 and weighs a mere 158 pounds, is generally regarded as the most exciting runner in college football this year.

Lewis, who finished third in the Heisman Trophy balloting for the outstanding college player of the season, has scampered for five long-range touchdowns of 80 yards or better to date this year.

State's 6-1-1 record includes a loss to Southern Cal and a tie with Michigan, the only team to knock off Illinois. The Illini's 4-1-1 Big Ten mark places them a half-stride behind the Spartans, and a tie would send State to the Rose Bowl for the first time in seven years.

Texas Favored

Another Thanksgiving entree will be served in College Station, Tex., where the Texas Longhorns, top-rated team in the nation, visit traditional rival Texas A&M. Texas is already assured of at least a tie for the Southwest Conference title and its third consecutive trip to the Cotton Bowl.

The Longhorns, unbeaten and untied in nine games, are 13-point favorites over the Aggies, whose record is a disappointing 2-6-1. Texas A&M did upset Rice in its last outing, but Texas has an overwhelming 47-17-5 advantage in the 70-year series, and only the Aggies separate the Longhorns from their first national championship. The game will be nationally televised.

The Atlantic Coast Conference co-champion also will be decided Thursday when North Carolina and Duke battle in Durham. North Carolina State already has clinched a part of the championship. The Blue Devils lead in this series, 26-20-3.

The Southern Conference championship will be awarded to the winner of the Virginia Tech - VMI game at Roanoke. The Gobblers, appropriately named for the day, are a one-touchdown favorite in the 70-year series.

One Of Best

One of the most attractive games of the day will be held at New York's Yankee Stadium where local favorite Notre Dame meets Syracuse for the first time since the famous Irish "overtime" victory in 1961.

In that game, Joe Perkowski booted a 41-yard field goal after the time had run out to give Notre Dame a 17-15 win. This year, however, the Orange are looking for a bowl bid and are favored by 7 points to gain some measure of revenge.

In other Turkey Day encounters, Richmond is favored by 2 over William and Mary, Wisconsin by 4 over Minnesota, Columbia 6 over Rutgers, Cincinnati 6 over Miami of Ohio, Cornell 7 over Penn, Maryland 8 over Virginia, Clemson 10 over South Carolina, and West Virginia 14 over Furman.

Oakland And Denver In AFL Test

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos and the Oakland Raiders get the wheels moving again in the American Football League with a nationally - televised Thanksgiving Day clash at Denver.

The 3:30 p.m. EST game is the first league action since the death of President Kennedy wiped out the AFL schedule last weekend and extended the season by a week.

The AFL's other six teams will play Sunday, under the revised schedule. Kansas City is at New York at 2:05 p.m. EST, Buffalo at Boston at 2:05 p.m. EST and Houston at San Diego at 3:35 p.m. EST.

Win-hungry Denver, last in the AFL Western Division, goes into the game without the running services of Gene Mingo but with Mingo's precision placekicking still available. Mingo suffered an injury in the Broncos-Jets game Nov. 17.

But the news that quarterback John McCormick was ready to start again was the best Denver had received in a long time. The Boston rookie turned into the hope of the Broncos after he was thrown into the breach on the abrupt retirement of veteran Frank Tripucka early in the season.

But McCormick twisted his knee here Oct. 13 against Houston and Denver's fortunes have sagged since.

Oakland started the season by knocking off Houston and Buffalo, then losing four straight after star running back Clem Daniels was hurt.

The telecast of the game over ABC-TV begins at 3:20 p.m. EST.

Lollar Named Oriole Coach

Former Catcher Gets Bullpen Job

BALTIMORE (AP) — Manager Hank Bauer filled out his Baltimore Oriole baseball coaching staff Wednesday by hiring Sherman Lollar as bullpen coach.

Gene Woodling and Billy Hunter were hired earlier, joining pitching coach Harry Brecheen who was retained by the Orioles after Billy Hitchcock was fired as field manager.

Lollar was released by the Chicago White Sox after the 1963 season, in which he batted .233 in 35 games.

The 39-year-old catcher spent 12 years with the White Sox. He also had played with the New York Yankees, St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians. His lifetime batting average is .264.

The Orioles said that despite his age, Lollar could be activated as a player in an emergency. The team's active catchers are John Orsino and Dick Brown.

Lollar won the Golden Glove award three straight years — 1957-59. The award is given each year to the best fielding catcher in each league.

Ailing Lions Oppose Green Bay In Final Turkey Day Get-Together

By VITO STELLINO
United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — The ailing Detroit Lions, mired in a three-way tie for fourth place and losers of their last three games, can't hope to come close to matching the emotional peak they reached last Thanksgiving Day when they manhandled the Green Bay Packers.

But the injury-riddled Lions, who can't go anywhere themselves, still have hopes of salvaging something out of the dismal 1963 season when they host the Packers Thursday in the final Thanksgiving Day clash between the two keen rivals.

The Lions, who finished second to the Packers the last three seasons won the runnerup bowl each time, stunned the Packers last Thanksgiving Day, 26-14, before a national television audience and a sellout crowd of 57,598 at Tiger Stadium.

This time the Lions, who have a 4-7 record, are a heavy underdog since they will be missing at least three starters from the defensive unit that blitzed the Packers last year.

But the Lions, who have built up a lot of frustration while finishing a notch behind the Packers the last three years, are still keyed up for this one.

They would like nothing better than to ruin the Packer hopes for a third straight National Football League crown and a fourth straight Western Division title.

"I have to admit it," Lion Coach George Wilson said, "the players are really up for this one. They just don't like the Packers, there's no question about it. We'll have trouble putting 22 healthy men out there, but they'll be ready."

The Packers will come into the game almost at full strength. Packer quarterback Bart Starr, who was sidelined in the St. Louis game, returned to action last week. But halfback Tom Moore, Paul Hornung's replacement, is still a question mark after being hurt again last week.

Packer Coach Vince Lombardi will pull the Packers out of the Thanksgiving Day game after this year.

The Turkey Day game was first played in Detroit when the Lions started back in 194 although it's been exclusively a lion-Packer series since 1951.

But Lombardi insists his team can't play a Thursday game after playing the previous Sunday because there isn't enough time for preparation. The teams will probably be rotated in the future although the game will remain in Detroit with the Lions hosting the game.

Big Eight Rules Suspended For Postponed Game

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— The Big Eight Conference suspended its rules Wednesday to allow Colorado to play the Air Force Academy Dec. 7 at Colorado Springs in the football game originally scheduled for last Saturday.

Wayne Duke, Big Eight executive director, said the rule affected by the action prohibits teams from playing a regularly scheduled football game after Dec. 5.

"But we conducted a telephone poll of the faculty representatives today," he said, "and they approved the suspension of the rule in this case."

Lions Donate $2,000 To Tippit's Widow

DETROIT (UPI) — About $2,000 will be donated by members of the Detroit Lions to the widow of Dallas Policeman J. D. Tippit, killed last Friday by the alleged assassin of President Kennedy.

The players on the National Football League team dug into their pockets and came up with with $50 each for the cause. The players voted unanimously to have the money deducted from their regular checks.

"A lot of players felt we shouldn't have played our games last Sunday," said Lion Co-Captain Joe Schmidt. "Since we had to, we felt we should try in some way to express our feeling. This is one way."

Sophomore Could Change Michigan's Cage Fortunes

Cazzie Russell Big Reason For High Pre-Season Rating

By VITO STELLINO
United Press International

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— Cazzie Lee Russell, Jr., is a 19-year-old sophomore from Chicago who's studying in the physical education department at the University of Michigan.

Russell will also play basketball for the Wolverines — and while he's yet to suit up for a varsity game, he's one of the main reasons why Coach Dave Strack's team is ranked No. 9 in the United Press International pre-season poll.

Russell, a 6-foot-5 jumping jack with uncanny accuracy from all parts of the floor, was one of the nation's most sought after athletes two years ago when he led Chicago Carver High to the Illinois prep championship game before losing two years ago.

Strack, in his fourth season with the Wolverines, has had difficulty containing his enthusiasm about Russell even though the youngster has yet to play a game.

"Offensively, he's got just about all the moves," Strack said. "And on defense, we play to utilize his height and strength under the backboards."

Russell will start at a guard slot Saturday at Ball State when the Wolverines open their 1963-64 season.

Bob Cantrell will be at the other guard with Buntin, 6-foot-7, at center. Two subs from last year, Larry Tregoning and George Pomey, and two sophomores, 6-foot-8 Jim Myers and 6-foot-7 Oliver Darden, will alternate at the forward slots.

"We'll move Russell to a forward slot on defense so we can take advantage of his rebounding ability," Strack said.

Russell is one of the most heralded players to arrive in the Big Ten since Jerry Lucas entered Ohio State five years ago. He's already made the Wolverines co-favorites with the Buckeyes for the conference crown this year.

But Strack is quick to point out the squad hasn't proved itself yet.

"I've got to admit I'm cautiously optimistic, but I know that it's always a long road ahead when you're counting mainly on sophomores," he added.

Last year Michigan was 8-6 in the Big Ten and 16-8 overall.

Russell is probably one of the best known athletes on the campus, but he's taking all the pre-season laurels in stride and is well-liked by his classmates.

Bruce Bulldogs To Open Dec. 6

Westernport Quint To Play 20 Games

Bruce High School's Bulldogs open a 20-game basketball schedule Friday, December 6, playing Northern High School in Garrett county.

The Huskies are the only non-league quint on the Bruce schedule.

The Westernport cagers, who plunged to a 1-19 record last season, after a 15-6 mark the previous year when they tied Allegany for the W.M.I. League championship, are scheduled to play 10 games in the P.V.C. and a like number of contests in the county loop. Beall High is also a member of both circuits.

With Leonard Ritchie as head coach for the ninth consecutive year, the Bulldogs will be making their debut in the 20-school Potomac Valley Conference in which Paw Paw and Piedmont shared the 1962-63 title.

The schedule:

Dec. 6—Northern, away
Dec. 10—Elk Garden, home
Dec. 13—Bayard, home
Dec. 17—Southern, away
Dec. 20—Northern, home
Jan. 3—Beall, home
Jan. 7—Fort Hill, away
Jan. 10—Mt. Savage, home
Jan. 14—Allegany, home
Jan. 17—Valley, away
Jan. 21—Southern, home
Jan. 24—Piedmont, home
Jan. 31—Beall, away
Feb. 4—Fort Hill, home
Feb. 7—Mt. Savage, away
Feb. 11—Allegany, away
Feb. 14—Valley, home
Feb. 18—Piedmont, away
Feb. 21—Keyser, home
Feb. 24—Bayard, away

WVU Starters Today

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Sophomore halfback Richie Martha and reserve quarterback Ed Pastilong are slated for starting duties here Thursday as the West Virginia University football team closes its season against Furman.

Martha has played mostly on defense this year but has carried 25 times for 89 yards, 57 of which came in the Oregon game.

Three Regional Telecasts Replace Army-Navy

NEW YORK (UPI)—In place of the national telecast of the postponed Army-Navy football game this Saturday, three college football games will be televised regionally, the Columbia announced Wednesday.

Yale-Harvard will be telecast in the East, starting at 1:15 p.m. EST. Baylor-Rice will be shown in the South and Southwest, starting at 2:45 p.m. EST. A third game, to be shown in the Midwest and Far West, has yet to be selected.

CS also announced that the Army-Navy game will be nationally televised on its new date, Saturday, Dec. 7. Since kickoff time has been moved up from 1:30 p.m., EST to 1:15 p.m. EST, the telecast will begin at 1 p.m. EST.

CBS said this telecast will replace that of the Maimi, Fla.-Alabama game scheduled on Dec. 7. He said there was a possibility that the Miami, Fla.-Alabama game might be rescheduled for another date.

Rocky, Bride In "Register"

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Social Register ousted prominent Americans by the score Tuesday but gave its seal of approval to the marriage of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Margaretta (Happy) Murphy.

The newly published 1964 edition dropped members of several families and even axed a Rockefeller cousin, but the governor and his bride remained "in."

Society had feared that the Register's anonymous board, sensitive as a seismograph to overly publicized divorces, might bounce the Rockefellers, both of whom were listed previously.

The unpredictable Register bounced instead one of the governor's millionaire cousins, William Avery Rockefeller, presumably for marrying an unlisted bride. William Rockefeller, twice divorced, took Betty von Soosten as his third wife last year.

Members of Pittsburgh's Mellon banking clan had mixed luck. The late Andrew Mellon's grandson, Timothy Mellon, brought his previously unregistered bride, Susan Tracy of Morristown, N.J., into the Register, but his cousin, William Mellon Hitchcock, drew a blank after marrying Venezuelan divorcee Aurora Trinconis Moore. Hitchcock is the son of the late polo great, Tommy Hitchcock.

Kind Word For Fat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dr. Jules Hirsch is one heart specialist who has something kind to say for body fat.

Hirsch, associate professor at the Rockefeller Institute in New York, told a heart symposium here that fat is a "storehouse of energy."

Hirsch said doctors too often look on fat as "just so much lard." But, he said, research recently concluded in New York showed fatty acids might be the "real gasoline of the blood, at least for muscle energy."

Heart Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If your father died of a heart attack and if you smoke quite a bit and drink a lot of coffee, the chances are a heart attack will fell you.

That grim prediction was made recently at a heart symposium here by Dr. Oglesby Paul, chief of the division of medicine at Passavant Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He called the national heart picture "discouraging."

Sen. Smith To Reveal Plans After Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine said Tuesday she would wait until after the first of the year to announce whether she will seek the Republican presidential nomination.

Sen. Smith had planned to reveal her intentions on Dec. 5 during a speech here before the Women's National Press Club.

LITTLE WOMEN

"Can you lend me a nickel for the parking meter, Mr. Scanlon? I spent all my money at the supermarket down the street."

"I was in your chemistry class, Mr. Osgood. Remember me . . . WHOOMM!!"

INVITATIONS FOR BIDS

The Housing Authority of the City of Grafton, West Virginia will receive bids for the general construction bids which includes General Construction, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical work for Public Housing Project No. W. Va. 12-1 consisting of 40 dwelling units located at Southwest corner of Piedmont Street and Yates Avenue, Grafton, West Virginia, until 2:00 p. m., (Eastern Standard Time) (EST) on 16th day of January, 1964, at the City Building, Grafton, West Virginia, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Proposed forms of contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of The Housing Authority of the City of Grafton, 207 W. Main Stret, Grafton, West Virginia and at the office of Clair S. Buchart, N. A., 611 W. Market Street, York, Pennsylvania, or at the F. W. Dodge Plan Room, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Copies of the documents (not to exceed two (2) sets), may be obtained by prime bidders upon deposit of $50.00 per set at the office of the Architect. Such deposit will be refunded upon receipt of a bonafide bid and return of the plans, specifications and other documents in good condition within 10 days after bid opening.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to The Housing Authority of the City of Grafton, U. S. Government bonds, or a satisfactory bid bond executed by the bidder and acceptable sureties in an amount equal to fifteen (15) per cent of the bid shall be submitted with each bid.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Specifications must be paid on this project.

County Shares Water Supply Connecting Cost

Woman's Well Was Contaminated

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday agreed to accept responsibility for 50 per cent of the cost of connecting the house of Mrs. Ernest Schwenninger on Oldtown Road near Mexico Farms Road on public water supply.

Fifty per cent of the cost will be charged to the State Health Department and the other 50 per cent to the County Health Department.

The county agreed to assume its responsibility after it was explained that Mrs. Schwenninger's well had been contaminated by effluent from a septic tank on nearby property. A builder had received permission from the County Health Department to install a septic tank for a new dwelling despite the fact that percolation tests showed the soil not suited for such a system.

James B. Reinhart, representing the M. D. Reinhart Agency, wrote the county commissioners as broker for the county fire insurance policy. He wrote that he has completed the filing of values with the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau under the public and institutional property plan adopted by the county and effected endorsement of all policies issued by participating agents under the master plan for the year starting November 1.

Copies of the Annotated County Code as amended this year are now available at the office of the county commissioners in the Court House. They will be available for sale at $10 per copy.

WILLIAM G. MILSTEAD

Local Postal Employes Plan Dinner

Former Postmaster Will Be Eulogized

The annual Employes Recognition Night sponsored by Cumberland Post Office employes and their wives will be held Saturday at 6:30 p. m. at Shrine Country Club.

William G. Milstead, special assistant to the Regional Director for Employe Relations in the Washington Region, will speak at the dinner event which is held each year to honor employes who retire during the year. Safety and incentive awards are also presented at this time.

The late Thomas F. Conlon who died October 10 after retiring in July as postmaster with the longest service, over 14 years, will be eulogized by Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., assistant postmaster.

J. W. Fatkin, toastmaster, will introduce Mr. Milstead and other guests. Andrew E. Newton, regional director, who initiated the first plan of retirement counseling and planning programs in the Washington region for federal employes, is also expected to attend with his wife.

Mr. Milstead entered the postal service in 1946 as a letter carrier in the Baltimore post office. His tenure in the service has included besides letter carrier, and acting assistant station superintendent at Baltimore, delivery services specialist for Washington region and his present position. He has also held offices in the National Association of Letter Carriers in Baltimore, Washington and in the state. His experience includes several years participation in postal management-labor conferences.

Two employes will be honored on retirement. They are Albert H. Hast who retired September 30 after serving from July 19, 1920 and Walter E. Alexander who will retire December 26, serving since July 1, 1928.

Acting Postmaster William B. Orndorff will present the safety and incentive awards and retirement gifts.

Mrs. Bernice Clark will give the invocation and benediction.

Entertainment will be provided by the employes and their wives who will present an original series of skits and scenes, "Stop The World—We Want to Get On!".

Jennie Grahame To Head Social Workers Group

Cancer Program Is Presented

Mrs. Jennie Grahame of the County Health Department was unanimously elected chairman of the Allegany County Social and Welfare Workers Group at a luncheon meeting in the Fort Cumberland Hotel. She succeeds Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt. Mrs. Grahame had served as secretary of the group.

Two vice chairmen were selected as a result of a tie vote. They are Miss Jeanette Bonig of Associated Charities and John Cobun, director of the local Maryland Rehabilitation office. Mrs. Sarah Lindsay of the Red Cross was unanimously elected secretary.

Mrs. Jean Cioni, director of the Allegany County Cancer Society, showed a film and gave a talk on lung cancer and the effects of smoking. There was general discussion during a question and answer period.

Raymond C. Messmer, who is retiring as superintendent of Sylvan Retreat and is a regular member of the group, was honored as a special guest. Weatherholt extended him a "permanent invitation" to attend all functions of the group and extended the group's best wishes as well as an invitation to his successor Kenneth W. Messmer, his son, to affiliate with the organization.

Mrs. Ella Everstine of Mental Health also spoke for Mr. Messmer, thanking him for the service he has rendered the county and the mentally ill of the county She said every agency here realizes the importance of this institution, the fine work of the Messmers and high quality of care and understanding shown at the institution.

Rev. William J. Cox, rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, offered the invocation. The next meeting was called for December 8 at 12:15 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Hits Pay Dirt

A Water Department back hoe, being operated by Ray Nixon, filtration plant foreman, is being used to uncover a 36-inch water main on Fort Avenue as Charles True, back hoe operator, directs the equipment. Late yesterday morning the crew located and calked a leak, about one inch in diameter, in a joint 14 feet below the surface. Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said the leak will be encased in concrete while the search for other leaks continues. He said Mr. Nixon reported he expects to find other leaks on the hillside. Three major leaks were closed in the vicinity about a week ago.

Law To Require Approval Of Building Sought

PPG Asked To Meet With Water Unit

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Legislation to require state approval for any structure which might interfere with state-owned resources will be sought at the next session of the Maryland Legislature.

The Water Pollution Control Commission recommended Wednesday that such legislation be enacted.

The proposal stems from a deflector which the Potomac Electric Power Co. plans to extend into the Patuxent River from its Chalk Point generating plant in Prince Georges County.

Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, director of the State Natural Resources Institute, opposed the extension on grounds it might affect the flow of the river and marine life.

The company said the structure was necessary to divert hot water from its intake downstream in order to comply with a Water Pollution Control Commission regulation. The commission said water at the discharge point can't exceed 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

It was brought out during discussions that no state agency actually had authority to prevent the structure. Army Corps of Engineers approval is necessary, but only as to safety of navigation.

In other actions Wednesday, the pollution control commission:

1. Directed that legal action be taken in Prince Georges County Circuit Court against Alfred H. Smith, a sand and gravel operator who has been under a court order since 1950 not to pollute the waters of Indian Creek. Commission personnel have said he is not in compliance with regulations and that present plans he has offered will not comply.

2. Invited representatives of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. at Cumberland to appear at the next meeting, Jan. 6, to furnish further information on their written request to discharge a higher alkalinity into the Potomac River.

3. Directed staff members of the commission to work closely with state health officials in a review of discharges by food processing and packing plants and the possible need for more effective treatment.

Robert N. Brown, chief of environmental hygiene for the State Health Department, said discharges from some tomato and poultry plants are causing nuisances in communities.

Safety Council Rates Maryland In First Place

Maryland has finished in first place in the nation in categories of accomplishment as measured by the National Safety Council.

In the annual traffic inventory, as conducted by the National Safety Council, Maryland is out in front of all states by four per cent.

The rating is based on an inventory of traffic deaths, accident records, traffic engineering, police traffic supervision, school traffic safety education, and safety organization.

Although, according to Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, Maryland has had an increase in its highway death toll, it is very low in comparison to other states. While the entire nation shows a gain of five per cent, Maryland is up only two per cent.

In the final scoring and analysis, Maryland was credited with 91 points for traffic and highway safety. Virginia was second with a point score of 87, along with North Carolina, Arizona and California. Utah and Michigan scored 86 points.

Washington and Texas had 85 points each and Delaware, Illinois, New York and Ohio had 84 points each.

Tests Planned For City Posts

Applications may be secured from the City Clerk's office and must be returned by December 11 at 5 p. m. Tests for the positions will be held December 16 at 7 p. m., according to William C. Wilson, chairman.

Applications for the laboratory technician post must be less than 50, must have been a resident of the city for two years and a high school graduate and must have completed one year of chemistry. The annual salary for the post ranges from $3,198 to $3,562.

Applicants for patrolmen must be between 21 and 35 and must become a resident of the city within 30 days after they receive permanent status. A 10th grade education is required and five feet, 10 inches is the minimum height. The salary scale ranges from $3,744 to $4,446.

Employment Offices Open Tomorrow

The Department of Employment Security office in Cumberland will be open tomorrow as usual, Francis A. Kenny, manager, said yesterday. The office will be closed today because of Thanksgiving.

In Frostburg, the department will keep office hours tomorrow instead of today.

The Order of Malta will be conferred by Past Commander Henry M. Earle, assisted by Captain General Robert E. Stallings.

Following the conferring of the Order of Malta, the commandery will recess at noon for a dinner in the social hall, to be served by McKinley Chapter No. 12, Order of Eastern Star.

After dinner, the Order of the Temple will be conferred by Commander John T. Reed, assisted by Past Commander Joseph Davis.

Man Is Guilty Of Contributing

A South End man yesterday was found guilty of purchasing beer for three minors and was given a 60-day suspended jail sentence.

William Seymour, 40, or 1005 Lexington Avenue, was found guilty of contributing to the delinquency of three minor boys at a hearing in Juvenile Court before Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin.

Magistrate Fatkin suspended the 60-day jail term, but placed Seymour on probation for one year. The three boys were placed on probation without verdict.

Lt. Thomas See of the Cumberland Police Department investigated the case.

170 Marriage Licenses Issued Here

Marriage licenses issued in November fell off only 170, the lowest level this year since March's 152, according to figures compiled by Mrs. Gusteen H. Linaburg, marriage license clerk in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Although November has not yet ended, yesterday was the last day in the month that most of the Court House will be open. The county commissioners granted Friday as a holiday in addition to Thanksgiving Day and the usual cessation of work on Saturdays and Sundays.

In November 1962, some 206 licenses were issued. With only December remaining, some 2220 marriage licenses have been issued this year compared with 2287 in the first 11 months of 1962. Last December there were 152 marriage licenses issued, to bring the annual total to 2439. Some 219 would be needed this December to match last year's mark.

Seven months this year there have been fewer marriage licenses than in the corresponding period a year ago. Only January, April and September topped the corresponding month a year ago while July was on the same level.

January—164 and 193; February—163 and 148; March—176 and 152; April—166 and 180; May—220 and 208; June—273 and 253; July—236 and 236; August—292 and 250; September—186 and 235; October—205 and 195; November—206 and 170.

Sanitary Commission Office Open Friday

Only the office of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission will be open in the Court House Friday.

Mrs. Colleen D. Humbertson, secretary to the commission, will be at her desk in the Court House basement while all other offices there are closed. She will be on duty because some contractors may want to come to the office during the day to leave their bids on the sewage treatment plant for Bowling Green. Bids are to be opened at 8 p. m. Friday by the sanitary commission.

Quentin Rice Heads So. End Businessmen

Christmas Lighting Ceremony Set Today

Quentin M. Rice was elected president of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association Wednesday night at a meeting of the board of directors at Canada Hose House, Arch Street.

Announcement also was made that Christmas lights decorations will be turned on in South Cumberland today at dusk.

Floyd Harper was elected vice president of the association and three officers were re-elected. They are Blair Ullery, financial secretary, James M. Roby, recording secretary, and Thomas K. Whalley, treasurer.

William B. Orndorff, present president, said the Christmas lights will be turned on in a ceremony at dusk today on Millenson's parking lot on Virginia Avenue near Third Street.

A committee of businessmen headed by James Scarpelli and including George Millenson, Marcus Naughton and Carl Amtower has been in charge of raising funds for the installation of the yule decorations. The association itself has also shared the cost of installing and servicing the lights.

Members of the association's board of directors are Mr. Roby, James Stafford, Wallace Ullery, Mr. Whalley, Simeon Wilson and six men who were elected at t he annual dinner meeting in September, James H. Garland, Allen P Shaw, Blair Ullery, Mr. Rice and Mr. Orndorff.

Burger Chef Opens In LaVale Today

The Burger Chef, described as a quick-service drive-in featuring open flame broiling, will have its grand opening today through Sunday at 1235 National Highway in LaVale.

Jack Gary of Hagerstown is owner of the business, which will be managed by Warren G. Holmes.

Mr. Gary said the hours for business will be 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Sunday through Thursday and from 10 a. m. to midnight Friday and Saturday.

Friends Assist Family Who Lost Home In Fire

Blaine Wilt, his wife and two sons, who were left homeless last Wednesday when a fire gutted their two-story farm house on Laurel Run Road near Barton, are temporarily living near Moscow in a dwelling belonging to Mr. Wilt's sister and brother-in-law.

In a letter to The Cumberland News the Wilt family said, "We wish to thank all who helped us in our disaster when our belongings all were destroyed by fire.

"We wish to thank the Lonaconing Fire Co. and also Barton Fire Co. and all who donated clothing, food and money."

Neighbors and friends of the Wilt family as well as the United Organization at Barton came to their assistance by donating furniture, clothes and food.

The assistance was enough for the family to get started again, according to Mrs. Arthur Bowser, Mr. Wilt's sister, who lives with her husband at Laurel Run.

Mrs. Bowser said the neighbors and UO were "awful good" to the Wilts. Mr. Wilt is employed as a coal miner.

Leaks In Water Lines Closed

Commissioner G. Ray Light said yesterday that a Water Department crew repaired a leak in a two-inch line at the intersection of Avenue O and M in Potomac Park. Since the line is located outside the city, costs were charged to affected property owners.

He said several leaks were found on private property and that customers were asked to make prompt repairs.

Another Water Department crew this week began installing about 250 feet of six-inch water main on Beechwood in the White Oaks section. The line will be extended, Mr. Light said, as the area builds up.

Police And Firemen's Ball Set Friday

The Mayor and Council has been invited by the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association to attend the 41st annual Police and Firemen's Ball.

The event will be held in Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, beginning at 9 p. m.

State College Is Installing IBM Machines

An IBM data machine system will be employed in January for registration of students at Frostburg State College, according to Miss Lillian Wellner, registrar.

Frostburg State completed plans this month to rent the equipment. It will consist of four pieces of machinery: a 402 Accounting machine; 082 Sorter; 526 Summary Key Punch and 085 Collator.

In the December pre-registration for the second semester, students will see the value and effect of these devices. Each student will fill out appropriate cards as usual.

These will enter an appropriate machine and will be recorded. A card record is then available on each student to be used in recording grades, schedule, and other data on each student.

The system can also be used for alumni reporting, placement bureau service, the student catalog and permanent records of the college. Officials say the rental of the machines is comparable to the salary of one highly paid clerk, and is expected to increase efficiency and generally reduce the costs of record keeping and other work.

Veterans Plan Yule Party

The Area Veterans Service Organization of Mineral County will sponsor a Christmas party for patients of Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, W. Va. on the afternoon of Sunday, December 8.

The party will begin at 2 p.m. and featured entertainment will be music by the "Two Hits and a Miss" which will be played in the auditorium of the VA Center.

Cigarettes and refreshments will be distributed to the patients. Students who are in the home economics class at Ridgeley High School will bake cookies for the occasion.

Groups which will participate in the party include the American Legion and its auxiliary unit of Ridgeley, legionnaires and auxiliary members at Keyser and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary members of McCoole.

Local, Area Brush Fires Extinguished

Local firemen and volunteers from Ridgeley fought separate brush fires yesterday.

The Ridgeley firemen received a call about noon and fought a brush fire at the dump and in a wooded area near the dump along West Virginia Route 28.

Local firemen were called to the rear of 617 Williams Street about 11:50 a. m. The blaze was extinguished by firemen of South End station.

East Side firemen were summoned to the 800 block of Williams Street at 11:58 a. m. although it was either a false alarm or the same fire reported to East Side.

Was A Marylander Responsible For Thanksgiving Holiday?

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

Some historians maintain that the first "official" Thanksgiving Day observance should be credited to a Maryland farmer, John Hanson, termed by some "the first actual President" of the United States.

Hanson, it is noted, was the first President of the United States under the Articles of Confederation which preceded the Constitution. Hanson actually was President of the Constitutional Congress which met in Annapolis, but he had none of the powers of the President under the Constitution.

Nonetheless, in 1782, Hanson proclaimed a day of Thanksgiving and prayer to be observed on November 28 . . . the same date as Thanksgiving this year.

So, whether the credit rightly goes to Mr. Hanson, or to the first Constitutional President of the United States, can be debated, and each side has a logical argument. For George Washington is generally credited with being the first President to proclaim Thanksgiving as a national holiday. Just prior to the last Thursday in November 1789, Washington urged the people of the spawning nation to offer up their prayers on that day, "for the signal manifold mercies and the favorable interposition of His providence, in the course and conclusion of the late war."

The proclamations of the various Presidents calling for Thanksgiving Day observance are varied and interesting reading. Some are profound, some are colorful, some are a little curt and some are filled with poetic phrases and rhetoric. The proclamations of some Presidents have also been widely discussed, argued and the cause of controversy.

All the Presidents, as far as records go, did not proclaim a national holiday for Thanksgiving. Prior to 1863 the holiday was not generally stabilized and people in different states celebrated Thanksgiving on different dates and in eight different months. The consistent feature seems to be however, that at least once a year, people did pause, either by proclamation, custom, or sheer habit or perhaps genuine faith and reverence, to give thanks.

Abraham Lincoln, in 1863 stabilized the holiday, setting aside the last Thursday of November. Because an occasional November popped up with five Thursdays, the day was later switched to the fourth.

But in 1939, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt moved Thanksgiving to the third Thursday, giving rise to loud and sustained public outcry. It was argued that an earlier Thanksgiving Day observance stimulated Christmas and holiday spending, because it made a week longer between Thanksgiving and Christmas. It was argued that the two holidays were too close to each other and the routine of business and government were interrupted by long holiday "weekends," at too close intervals. These and other arguments pro and con were offered.

Half the nation followed the Presidential Proclamation and feasted on the third Thursday. Traditionalists observed the fourth. Some just laughed it off and had two Thanksgiving Days, a week part.

This confused state lasted two more years and the public outcry finally reached Congress. The President and Congress then decided on the fourth Thursday. And so it is today.

The late President Kennedy last year came in for some "gentlemenly criticism and friendly protests" after he released his Thanksgiving Day proclamation.

In part, President Kennedy's 1962 proclamation for Thanksgiving Day said, "Over three centuries ago in Plymouth, on Massachusetts Bay, the Pilgrims established the custom of gathering together each year to express their gratitude to God."

Now in Virginia, where so many statemen have been produced, and where dwell descendants of some of the nation's earliest settlers, this 1962 proclamation produced a slight furor.

Virginians have long argued that Massachusetts Pilgrims put turkey on the Thanksgiving table, but it was the Virginia colonists who put Thanksgiving on the calendar. In fact, there are some Virginia gentlemen who go so far as to claim that the Pilgrims, with all their plans for a day of feasting, would have had very scant fare if their invited guests, the native Indians, had not appeared with turkey, venison, corn and other foods in great abundance.

Backers of the Virginia claim pointed out that colonists at Berkeley Plantation, on the banks of the James River, observed a day of Thanksgiving on December 4, 1619, three years before the Pilgrims had theirs.

Further, the record shows, the Virginia colonists acted on explicit instructions given to their leader, Captain John Woodleaf, by the expedition's organizers in London. Woodleaf had been told that the day of landing be "perpetually kept holy as a day of Thanksgiving to Almighty God."

Whether it started in Massachusetts, Virginia or Maryland, or whether it is merely a custom which can be traced back to ancient peoples and to areas that never heard of the Colonies . . . whether Maryland or Virginia put it on the calendar, it is still a very nice and very all-American custom.
